Castle Howard is in a situation of unsurpassed beauty on a height above the Meeting of the Waters, overlooking the far-famed Vale of Avoca. The Castle is a picturesque building, flanked with towers in the Norman style, with extensions of later date in Tudor Gothic. The accommodation includes entrance hall, very fine staircase, morning room, diningroom, drawingroom, and a spacious library, with superb ceiling and other decorative features in Gothic tracery; numerous family and secondary bedrooms, servants rooms, etc. There are suitable out-offices convenient to the House in an enclosed yard. The Garden is well stocked, and contains a clock tower, the clock in which the purchaser will be entitled to take on valuation at £20. The other buildings on the Land consist of gate lodge, steward's house, and some workmen's cottages. The Timber, which is the predominating feature of the Lands, has recently been valued by an expert at £5,500. The Lands not under Timber are sufficient for grazing, meadow, and tillage purposes.

The place is situated within two miles from Avoca Station, on the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway, and about 43 miles from Dublin.

CITY CARTER'S DEATH.—The City Coroner (Dr. Byrne) held an inquest on Saturday concerning the death of James O'Brien (48), of Dolphin's Barn, who was a carter in the employment of Messrs. O'Keeffe. The evidence showed that deceased had been accidentally crushed between two carts on the 12th inst. on Sir John Rogerson's quay. He was removed to Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital, where it was found that his intestines had been ruptured. Upon this pneumonia supervened, with fatal results. The jury found as their verdict that death was due to the internal injuries, which were caused by accident.

FATAL MOTOR SMASH.—At an adjourned inquest at Ballycarney, between Enniscorthy and Newtownbarry, touching the death of George Miller, farmer, of Danville Cottage, Kilkenny, who was killed in a motor collision, a verdict of accidental death was returned. The jury also found that the driver of neither vehicle took reasonable precaution when approaching the cross-roads at which the accident took place.

RESCUE AT WICKLOW.—The motor boat, Kia-ora, owned by Mr. J. A. M'Clingham, Kingstown, which left Arklow on Thursday, returning from a pleasure trip, was caught in a gale and forced to anchor off Wicklow Head for the night. On Friday, fearing a disaster, the party aboard signalled to the coastguard station, and the lifeboat, after considerable difficulty, owing to the heavy seas running, rescued the three occupants.

FRENCH BY GRAMOPHONE.

The Hugo System of Self-Tuition by Post seems to get simpler every year. Mr. Hugo now announces a novel scheme in connection with his highly successful French Court. This is the supplying of 12 double-sided gramaphone records as part of the course, so that the student may hear over and over again the correct pronunciation and thus acquire the proper accent. This method seems destined to take the place of the native teacher, and must further popularise the Hugo System.

A knowledge of French is a great asset in commercial circles, and when one learns how easily it can be acquired by the Hugo System, there really seems no reason why English men and women should not be as good linguists as our Continental friends. Advertisement in another column gives all necessary information of the scheme.

ATHLETICS AND CYCLING.

IRISH A.A.A. SCHOOLS CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The conditions on Saturday at Lansdowne road were very unfavourable, despite which there were several meritorious performances, the feature of the meeting being the high jump of Patterson (R.A.I., Belfast), who cleared 5ft. 2¼ins., in beating the previous best for the sports by 4½ins. F. J. M'Ostrich, of Cork, once more proved himself the boy champion by annexing the 100, 440, and long jump, and by scoring 20 points secured the silver cup presented by Mr. F. Wynne, G. Hurst, of St. Andrew's College, being a good second with 17 points. Owing to the strong breeze, the sprints were run the reverse way, which will account for the times appearing so fast. Meleady, of Belvedere College, showed excellent form in the juniors, and annexed the 100 and 300, while Jagoe (Cork G.S.) easily accounted for the junior half-mile. Details:—

SPORTING NEWS.

PHŒNIX PARK MEETING—SATURDAY.

INTERESTING SPORT.

In cold, but fine, weather, the September Meeting at Phœnix Park was brought to a successful issue on Saturday. The attendance was of splendid dimensions in all departments and the company were regaled with a capital afternoon's sport, while backers, on the whole, fared well, but the unlucky defeat of the Grey Tip filly in the last race of the day would have cost some of the punters dear.

That very consistent performer, Lover True, gave another taste of her quality in the Liffey Plate, which she won after a rattling finish with Cockatoo, to whom she was conceding 20lb. The daughter of Ardoon has certainly paid her way this season. Saturday's was her seventh success, the last four being gained in the colours of the Rajah of Kashmir, who acquired her a couple of months ago from Mr. J. S. Graham. Cup-rose, who left off in most demand for the Selling Two-Year-Old Handicap, ran in disappointing fashion, and, as a matter of fact, William W., who was also well backed, practically dominated the situation throughout, and after scoring very easily over Star of Amen he was bought in for 270 sovs., which left a surplus of £170 for division between the owner of the second and the fund.

Notable absentees from the field for the Enniskillen Plate were Corn Kale, Sir Launcelot, and Suncroft, but Conyngham Lodge supplied a worthy substitute for the last named in the Ardock filly. Eager Flight was installed favourite, a preference she looked like justifying for a considerable portion of the journey; but in another close finish she was run out of it by the Ardock filly, who had half a length the best of it passing the judge's box. Mignonette was prominent for a long way, but compounded at the distance, and was deprived of third place by Fariray. Marie Rose made some amends for previous failures when she romped away from eight opponents in the Mulhuddert Handicap, for which she left off in most demand. A very quick beginner, she soon established a clear lead, and made light of the efforts of Dorama and Recruiter to lessen the gap.

Another smart performance was that given by Nenette in the Tolka Plate, the result of which she never left in doubt, and now registered her third win. She is the first foal of her dam, Disgraceful, a mare by Arizona, out of Graceful by Malton, and, endowed with a fine turn of speed, Nenette should do further useful service for Mountjoy Lodge. The concluding event, the Weight-for-Age Plate, was associated with a regular turn-up, the Grey Tip filly, on whom odds of 4 to 1 were laid, being caught and beaten on the post by Traceable. A quarter of a mile from home it looked any odds in reason on the favourite, who at that point was at the head of affairs, and had apparently taken the measure of the opposition. Her jockey obviously apprehended no danger and eased the filly, with the result that when Canty threw out a determined challenge on Traceable he was unable to get her going again in time to avert defeat. Quirke, the rider of Grey Tip filly, was fairly "caught napping," and after the race he was mulcted in a fine of £20 by the Stewards. Details:—

HORSE-JUMPING AT LUCAN.

The weather at Lucan on Saturday was not conducive to a good attendance at the horse-jumping competitions, which were held in the grounds adjoining St. Joseph's Presentation Convent, and the company was a rather small one. Two events comprised the programme for the evening, the Champion Stone Wall and Grand Open, and they yielded some very good jumping, three rounds in each being necessary before the judges were able to make the awards. The Stone Wall was won by Major W. H. King's Ginger, Miss Flanagan's Pink 'Un being a good second. As on the first day, Mr. F. Harold Clarke's Singing Water readily accounted for the opposition in the Grand Open, in which this excellent jumper secured her fourth red rosette in as many months, having made her debut in jumping competitions in July, after being brought in off the grass. Miss M. Kellett's The Widow was second, and Captain R. O'Kelly's Nigger third, slight mistakes by Daybreak at the hurdle and wall keeping Mrs. Coyle's representative out of the prize list. Details:—

CHAMPION STONE WALL.—First prize, £10; second, £5; third, £2.

Major W. H. King's GINGER	L. Ryan	1
Miss Flanagan's Pink 'Un	Owner	2
Miss M. Kellett's THE WIDOW	Miss D. Lawlor	3

Also competed:—Mrs. Coyle's Daybreak, Captain H. O'Kelly's Baldoyle, Mrs. Mills McDonnell's Larry, Mr. D. Kellett's Manners, Mr. C. Evans' Ballinrobe, Captain R. O'Kelly's Nigger, Kerenski and Pillage.

GRAND OPEN COMPETITION.—First prize, £15; second, £5; third, £2.

Mr. F. Harold Clarke's SINGING WATER	J. Rafferty	1
Miss M. Kellett's THE WIDOW	Miss D. Lawlor	2
Captain R. O'Kelly's NIGGER	Owner	3

Also competed:—Miss Edward's Nugget, Mrs. Coyle's Daybreak, Captain H. O'Kelly's Baldoyle, Mrs. Mills McDonnell's Larry, Mr. D. Kellett's Manners, Miss Flanagan's Pink 'Un, Major W. King's Ginger, Captain R. O'Kelly's Kerenski and Pillage.

BOXING.

JACK JOSEPHS DEFEATS ALEC LAMBERT.

Those well-known light-weights, Jack Josephs (Pontypridd) and Alec Lambert (St. James's) met in a 20 rounds contest at The Ring, Blackfriars, London, on Saturday night. The Welsh lad, having some advantage in weight, and being the better in condition, forced matters from the outset, with the result that Lambert had a bad time of it. He was down in the second round, and several times afterwards was knocked off his feet, with the result that in the sixth round, heavily outpointed and well beaten, he retired from the contest.

POLO.

MR. TRENCH'S TEAM v. MR. BALDING'S TEAM.

The unsettled conditions which prevailed on Saturday prevented the customary large crowd from witnessing the fairly interesting game between teams captained respectively by Mr. Trench and Mr. Balding, which was played at the Nine Acres, Phœnix Park. The sides were both too well balanced, and at intervals Mr. T. Roark and Mr. E. Roark assisted Mr. Trench's team, which proved the cleverer, and won by seven goals to two. The play throughout was rather slow and uneventful, and was only occasionally relieved by fast spells of attack on either side in which Mr. Daly, Mr. Trench, and Mr. Shackleton showed to advantage. Teams:—

Mr. Balding's Team—Mr. Shackleton, Hon. K. Mackay, Mr. Ray, and Mr. Balding.

Mr. Trench's Team—Mr. Trench, Mr. Daly, Mr. T. Roark, and Mr. Tyrrell.

Hon. K. Mackay got well down soon after the start, and Mr. Balding's side was constantly pressing, until Mr. Daly made progress with a series of clever strokes, but Mr. Shackleton returned play to the opposite end, where Mr. Tyrrell was several times called upon to clear. Mr. Daly later broke away, but when favourably placed lost possession. The subsequent play was evenly distributed, but Mr. Trench's goal had a lucky survival from a shot by Hon. K. Mackay, whose effort was cleared by Mr. Trench. Mr. Shackleton played up strongly in the next chukkar, in which Mr. Roark and Mr. Trench on a couple of occasions forced Mr. Balding to clear. Mr. Trench later got through, and from close in registered the opening score. A period of play at midfield followed, in which the defence on both sides lacked finish, and, following some scrambling play, Mr. Daly hit through the second. Mr. E. Roark, coming on in the third period, was prominent with Mr. Trench in a fast run, which ended in the last-mentioned player scoring. Mr. Balding scored another dangerous attack soon afterwards, and, following an effort of Mr. Ray, Mr. Daly quickly returned, his shot just missing the post. Nearing the conclusion of the period Mr. Balding's side played up strongly, and subsequent to a strong drive from Mr. Balding his side scored their first goal from a melee. The opening stages of the fourth chukkar were keenly contested, and after Mr. Ray and Mr. Shackleton had brought the ball well down Mr. Daly returned, and in a hard-hitting spell of play Mr. T. Roark eventually got away to score the fourth for his side. Mr. Ray later cleared, and soon afterwards Mr. Shackleton initiated a strenuous attack with a good run, but the last possession, and in a spell of fast play Mr. Trench's side carried the ball to the other end, where Mr. Daly hit through the fifth. Some fast strokes play in the sixth chukkar was prominent, with a run by Mr. Balding, and later Mr. Ray and the Hon. K. Mackay were prominent, but despite some close play round both goals no further score was registered. Mr. Trench's side attacked strongly in the concluding period, and after Mr. Balding had cleared Mr. T. Roark returned, and with a good effort scored the sixth. Mr. Balding's team then became prominent, and both Hon. K. Mackay and Mr. Shackleton were unlucky from close range before the latter scored the second. Play was then taken to the opposite end, and though Mr. Balding cleared, Mr. Trench got possession and scored the seventh. Result:—

Mr. Trench's Team	7 goals.
Mr. Balding's Team	2 goals.

The Irish Times.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1919.

Telegrams from Petrograd to Stockholm and Helsingfors state that the Russian Soviet Government are anxious to enter into peace negotiations with the Entente Powers on a basis laid down by the Entente.

According to a message from Reval, the Esthonian peace delegates have been met by the Bolshevik delegation near Pskoff. It is added that their reception was most courteous, and that the first meeting took place on Thursday.

The Prince of Wales, continuing his Canadian tour, on Saturday reached the lumber village of Golden, where the Rockies give place to the ice-crowned Selkirk mountains.

About 50,000 men in the English foundry trade ceased work on Saturday. They demand an increase of 15s. per week.

Five candidates have declared their intention of contesting the Rusholme by-election.

A number of matters affecting the Irish cattle trade were considered at a special meeting in Dublin of the Irish Cattle Traders' and Stock Owners' Association.

A Cork telegram states that the publication of the Cork Examiner and its allied newspapers, which were suppressed on Wednesday last, will be resumed to-day.

Retrenchment and Finance.

A White Paper issued on Saturday contains some significant facts. It relates to the army of Government officials which the war has left as one of its most costly legacies. During the month of July the total number of officials increased by 2,267. On August 1st, 1914, the nation employed 34,607 Government officials in various capacities. On August 1st of this year our departmental staffs consisted of 409,561 individuals—roughly twelve times as many. A large number of these additional officials, no doubt, were and are indispensable; but there are many thousands whose services might be used in more humble and far more useful capacities. There has been a considerable amount of public indignation at the spectacle of large departmental staffs wasting their time and the public funds at Whitehall; but, during July at any rate, little seems to have been done to effect reduction on an appreciable scale. The Air Ministry, for instance, succeeded in dispensing with 25 officials out of a total of 3,254. The Ministries of Labour and Munitions and the War Office, on the other hand, reduced their respective staffs by nearly 1,000, but "other departments" increased theirs by 971. The returns for the Ministry of Pensions also show a large increase, and the total number of officials connected with this department now amounts to 13,337. These figures do not tend to inspire confidence in the sincerity of Ministers who have been preaching economy. The Prime Minister's letter to his colleagues, it is true, was written only during the last week of August, and the effect of his exhortations remains to be seen. Nevertheless, July was the month during which public agitation was at its zenith. That the army of Government officials should have increased during that month is a very bad omen. The Government's lack of courage in dealing with one of its easiest problems has been exposed once more.

In the meantime various "schemes" are being propounded for the financial and economic salvation of the country. Mr. Clynes, speaking at Holyhead on Saturday, affirmed that the only way to bring about a sound improvement was by the levying of a tax on capital or on fortunes which have accumulated during the war. On the other hand, our London Correspondent states that a Cabinet Minister is said to have expressed the opinion that an income tax of 10s. in the £ may be expected in the next Budget, and that "it will be placed even upon earned incomes of over £600 a year." By neither of these methods can our problems be solved. Mr. Clynes's method is tantamount to repudiation of the War Loan, and would lead us no farther along the road to recovery than we are to-day. Labour proposes to give with the one hand and take away with the other. Consider the demands of the Glasgow Congress. It has been estimated that a universal 44-hour week would reduce output by a further amount of £420,000,000 per annum, and that the granting of an old-age pension of £1 a week to sexagenarians wold cost the country £20,000,000 per annum in excess of the present amount. According to the opinion of Sir G. B. Hunter, of Wallsend-on-Tyne, expressed in a letter which we print to-day, even the introduction of a 48-hour week is "economically unsound and suicidal." The Cabinet Minister who proposes an income tax of 10s. in the £ also has failed in his quest for a panacea. No amount of arithmetical juggling can influence the working of economic laws. The country is living on a rapidly dwindling credit. It is living both extravagantly and lazily. The proposals to tax capital, to raise the income tax, to impose it only on incomes which exceed £250, and similar schemes would do no more than to shift the burden of the country's troubles from one set of backs to another. The essential is that the burden shall be removed.

In spite of the gloom of White Papers, and the palpable uselessness of rhetorical remedies, there are some slight signs that the axe is being laid at the root of our troubles. Its blows are still feeble, but they have begun. Unemployment doles have been reduced. Sixty-two thousand men have found work since July 25th. Furthermore, the output of coal, mirabile dictu, has increased. The figures for the last week in August were 4,354,983 tons, compared with 2,642,895 tons for the first week. Export prospects also have improved, and British commercial agents have established themselves in important foreign centres. Increased production and export are two of the chief conditions of economic revival. Another is economy. The Government has shown a very bad example, but there is no reason why the country should follow it. As exports are increased, imports must be reduced to a minimum. There is no other way of paying our debts. Luxuries must be renounced. None of us, not even the rich, can afford them, because the money which we are spending so lavishly is virtually worthless. Every time a cheque is cashed against "Bradbury" notes the State sinks further into the morass. Therefore, the circulation of these notes should be kept as low as possible, in order that the Treasury may have a chance to reduce their number and re-establish the currency on some sort of economic basis. The country needs wealth, not paper, and the only way in which our wealth can be increased is by a smaller consumption of what we have, added to the creation of new wealth by means of work. The individual who, with £100 in his pocket, and debts to the amount of ten times that sum, stopped working and proceeded to spend his £100 in largesse, theatre tickets, and champagne suppers would be regarded as a hopeless lunatic. Yet such is Britain's conduct to-day.

The French Army.

The idealism of the League of Nations is still under grave suspicion in France. On that country, indeed, President Wilson's vision of a warless world has made a slighter impression than on any other people in Europe. In the first place, the French character is cautious and practical, and all Frenchmen are attentive and rather cynical students of human nature. In the next place, the soil of France has been invaded thrice within a hundred years. Frenchmen are alive to-day who have witnessed two of these invasions, with all their devastation and horror. It is not surprising that France is resolved to take every possible precaution against a recurrence of these tragedies. Germany is helpless and harmless for the moment, but she has had one startling resurrection already, and may have another. America has little to fear from European aggression, and Britain's Navy has been, and will remain, her sure shield. To France her Army means everything that the Atlantic on one side and the Pacific on the other mean to the United States and everything that the British Navy means to England. France has accepted the League of Nations; but, for the present at any rate, she intends to have another string to her bow. She proposes to keep her Army at fighting strength, and, in its reorganisation, she will not overlook the lessons of the late war. A Sub-Committee on Armaments and Troops, which is engaged with this question of reorganisation, has made a preliminary report to the Senate Army Commission. The report recommends that conscription shall continue, but that the conscript's active military service shall be reduced to a period of one year. This arrangement will yield 200,000 men, instead of 600,000 as previously. The total peace strength of the Army, including a regular section of 150,000 men, will be 350,000, with a further reserve of 2,000,000 for any emergency. The Army troops on the Eastern frontier will contain two active divisions, instead of one, as in the other corps, and one of these will be maintained at more than full strength on the Rhine. Six infantry divisions and one cavalry division will comprise the Army of Occupation. Our own War Office, it may be noted, has decided to maintain a division as well as a mixed brigade on the Rhine. The report proposes that the headquarters of the 21st Division shall be moved from Epinal to Strasbourg, which thus will become once more an important centre of the French Army. The report may undergo certain economies before it is endorsed by the French Government; but, even if it is adopted in full, there will be no cause for undue despondency about the future of the League of Nations. France's national security is her chief concern, and she is determined—rightly, as we believe—to subject it to no risk. She will be a poor country, however, for many years, and will not endure without good cause the cost of large armaments and the toll on industry which will be represented by the annual conscription of 200,000 men. We may be certain that, if the League of Nations justifies the hopes of its founders and gradually stabilises civilisation on a basis of solid peace, France will not maintain a great Army as a mere tribute to tradition and sentiment. Her present precautions are in the nature of a prudent insurance against the tricks of destiny.

A New Strike.

At a time when British industry in general shows signs of settling down to real work the news of a great strike of iron-founders is very disconcerting. It is reported that 50,000 men came "out" on Saturday. The work of the iron-founders is indispensable to a large variety of trades. Ship-building will be affected most seriously of all. Builders depend on the founders for fire-grates, iron gutters, and piping, and a shortage of these articles must aggravate the housing problem. Since Yorkshire is the centre of the foundry business, a new period of idleness and distress threatens a county which has suffered exceedingly from the recent coal strike. The present strike seems to be without any redeeming feature. The men earn an average wage of £4 a week. They have struck for an increase of 15s. for journeymen and of 7s. 6d. for apprentices. They are working under an agreement which does not expire until next month, and their latest demand is a repudiation of it. In these circumstances the masters refuse to give the increases, and have decided to stand firm. Three unions are involved, and Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., the new member for Widnes, is the president of the largest of them. The leaders have discountenanced a stoppage; Mr. Henderson used strenuous endeavours to get the men to wait until the existing agreement is due for revision. It is believed that most of the great engineering unions are hostile to the strike. This seems to be, in short, another case of industrial Bolshevism. The remedy of an angry public opinion has been effective in similar cases, and, if the strike continues, its effects will be brought home to the public without delay. It is said that the average stock of castings held by engineering firms in the lighter trades is not larger than a three weeks' supply.

Fiction and Morals.

From the time of Horace it has been the fashion of poets and preachers to decry the morals of their own times. They find the existing generation always worse than any of its predecessors, and engaged in the production of a generation still worse than itself. This fallacy—for it is a fallacy—seems to be shared by Canon Horsley. He has just told the International Brotherhood Congress that seven out of every ten of the novels which are published nowadays are incentives to immorality. No regular novel-reader will endorse this sweeping indictment. It is probably true that seven out of every ten new novels are silly, stupid, or ill-written; but those which are positively dangerous by reason of frank or—what is even more hurtful—insidious immorality are few and far between. Canon Horsley's suggestion that this age compares unfavourably with former ages in the matter of literary decency is not supported by facts. Mrs. Aphra Behn was the favourite novelist of the seventeenth century—a period when, as Macaulay says, "all the lighter kinds of literature were deeply tainted by the prevailing licentiousness." Passages on which no reputable publisher would care to set his imprimatur to-day are frequent in the classics of Richardson, Smollett, and Fielding. The truth is that society's moral standard has advanced with the ages, and that this advance is reflected in their literature. There have been periods of reaction—as in the England of Charles II. and France of the Revolution—but, on the whole, a progressive improvement of democracy's morals and manners has accompanied the flight of time.

It is announced, says a Reuter's New York telegram, that the Cunard Company has secured the huge liner, Imperator, formerly belonging to the Hamburg-America Line, for its Atlantic service.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

It is safe to say that the White Paper issued yesterday concerning the number of Government officials gave London the biggest surprise it has had for some time. There is an increase of 2,267 employés, the Post Office, the Inland Revenue Departments, the Pensions Ministry, the Customs and Excise Departments, the Food Ministry, and the Board of Agriculture all increasing their staffs. In a month the Air Ministry has managed to decrease its workers by twenty-five. On July 1st this Ministry employed 3,254 workers, and on August 1st it had 3,229. On August 1st there were employed in Government departments no fewer than 409,561 employés—167,314 women and 242,247 men; 54,273 men and 112,508 women are temporary employés.

The "Clubman," writing in the Pall Mall Gazette yesterday, stated that he was told that Viscount French's visit to London has a very direct bearing on the Prime Minister's determination to solve the Irish question. There are rumours of Mr. Macpherson's impending resignation, but in official circles very little credence is attached to them. The Chief Secretary has gone away for a rest under medical orders, and this fact probably explains many of the stories that are current.

Strange news comes from Russia nowadays, and little credence can be given to much of it. It is now reported from Stockholm that the Soviet Government of Russia has resolved to authorise the People's Commissaries to enter into peace negotiations with the Entente Powers on a basis laid down by the latter. This news, if true, would be almost an admission of defeat on the part of Lenin and Trotsky, and the fact makes it almost impossible to believe. That these two men, so responsible for the ruin of Russia, would place themselves at the disposal of the Entente seems too good to be possible.

The announcement made yesterday that the King desires to bestow a special mark of Royal favour on Mr. Balfour for his magnificent services to the Empire during the war is probably only intelligent anticipation. Mr. Balfour already has the Order of Merit, and it is probable that he would be given a Peerage at any moment when he expressed a desire for it. Mr. Balfour, however, has made his name so illustrious that he may not desire to sink it in a Peerage. It is more than likely, however, that his long and untiring work at the Peace Conference will be acknowledged by a great distinction.

France means to maintain a big Army, even though she has been so victorious; and her troops on a peace footing will number 350,000 men. There will also be a reserve of two million men. France is evidently determined to take no risks that she may avoid. The peace establishment of France before the war was 818,532 officers and men, with 27,656 Colonial troops stationed in France. There were also thirty-six divisions of reserve troops and some reserve cavalry, amounting to about another half-million, making the total combatants nearly 1,350,000. These were in addition to the Territorial and other reserves.

France is also making preparations for peace, and the influx of tourists that she expects next year. Everything possible is to be done to make them comfortable, and, in order that they may be protected against unscrupulous hotel-keepers, the Office National de Tourisme has sent to all these people a notice informing them that a Compagnie Française de Tourisme has been set up to prepare and facilitate travelling in the country. A form is enclosed so that the hotel-keepers may indicate the period when their hotels are open, their charges, and the degree of comfort offered. They are also asked to give a guarantee not to change the prices indicated for at least six months. Information offices for travellers are to be established in all the big coast towns and at inland centres.

The Freedom of the City of London, with a sword of honour, is to be presented to Field-Marshal Lord Allenby on Tuesday, October 7th. After the ceremony there is to be a luncheon at the Mansion House. On October 28th Prince Albert is to take the Freedom of the City at the London Guildhall, and the Lord Mayor will afterwards entertain him to lunch at the Mansion House.

Italy is the only one of the great Allied countries that has had no great peace celebration. Probably one reason for this was the dissatisfaction felt in many parts of Italy as a result of the Peace Conference. That, however, now seems to be a thing of the past, for the Italian Government is making arrangements for a peace festival to take place in Rome on November 3rd and 4th. It is to be on the lines of the London celebration, and representatives of the Navy and Army will pass in procession through some of the great Roman thoroughfares, while detachments of the Allied Armies will be invited to take part. At the same time a great permanent memorial of the war is proposed. The names of the 500,000 Italians who fell in the war are to be carved on the walls of the great monument erected to Victor Emanuel in the Piazza Venetia.

A special Conference of the Miners' Federation is to be called for next month so that the "direct action" policy may be considered. It is said that there is now a great deal of trouble in the Welsh coalfields because the Government will not raise the limit for exemption from income tax to £250 per annum. The increase in the price of living is another point for discussion. The Miners' Executive seem a little uncertain as to the action they shall take on this occasion, and it is said that all they may do will be to recommend that the income tax proposal shall be placed before the Government as part of the ultimatum of the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress. This would not carry the matter much further, for it is understood that the Parliamentary Committee is not a fervent advocate of "direct action."

While mentioning income tax I may say that it is rumoured that Cabinet Ministers are divided on the question of increasing this tax in the next Budget. One Minister is said to be of the opinion that the people of the country could not pay a heavier tax than the present. Another is reported, however, to have expressed the opinion that a ten shillings in the pound tax is likely, and that it will be placed even upon earned incomes of over six hundred a year. Such a tax seems impossible, and its imposition would be viewed with dismay by even the tax collectors. Many of these officials are having great difficulty in collecting this year's tax, and, if the tax should be doubled, their difficulties would increase tremendously.

It has been extremely cold in London during the past few days, and warm clothes and fires are general. By the keenness of the wind it might be imagined that winter was already upon us, and before the official Summer Time is ended. The weather authorities, however, say that the change does not portend the beginning of the winter season. The cold snap is due to the change of atmosphere in the northern regions. There is a cold spell all over the country, and it may last a few days. It is bound to lift, however, and we may expect a spell of bright autumn weather before the winter begins in earnest.

The medical authorities are taking precautions to deal with an influenza outbreak in case there should be a return this autumn and winter of the disease. There were only nine deaths from influenza in London last week, and the Ministry of Health thinks that there are at present no indications of a return of the epidemic. But, it is added, if the experience of previous epidemics is repeated, something in the nature of a recrudescence on a limited scale of the very serious outbreak of last winter is to be expected.

IRISH WAR MEMORIAL.

ORGANISATION OF COUNTY DUBLIN.

SPEECH BY LORD MEATH.

A meeting in connection with the Irish National War Memorial Fund, representative of the County Dublin, was held in the Shelbourne Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday afternoon. The Earl of Meath, H.M.L., presided, and among those present were:—

Lord HolmPatrick acted as Secretary to the meeting.

The Earl of Meath, H.M.L., in opening the meeting, said that he had called them together in order to accede to a request he had received from the Lord Lieutenant to organise the County of Dublin for the purpose of collecting subscriptions for the Irish National War Memorial Fund, and for obtaining information as to the names of soldiers belonging to the county who served or fell in the Great War. They were all, doubtless, aware that the City of Dublin had already been ably organised for the same purpose, and that considerable sums of money had been obtained. Lord French desired to see the County Dublin similarly organised, and he was sure that those of them who resided in the county would not wish it to be less efficiently organised than was the city. Some of them already occupied seats on the General Committee of the Fund, and had already been working energetically for the city. To these his special thanks were due for the public spirit they were displaying by extending the operations of their energies in the interests of the memorial. Lord French had expressed to him his great regret at not being able to be present there that day, but he had already, by voice and pen, given such eloquent and convincing expression to the arguments in support of his appeal, that it was unnecessary for him (the Chairman) to repeat them, or to endeavour to elaborate or add to them. It was sufficient to say that for nearly five years they had been engaged in a life and death struggle with powerful and ruthless enemy nations, banded together for the purpose of crushing liberty wherever it might be found, and for placing the world under the heel of an iron military despotism. (Applause.) Thousands of Irishmen of all classes, and belonging to different beliefs, when they realised the horrors which threatened their beloved land, should the enemy have proved successful, rushed voluntarily to the fray, and deliberately sacrificed their lives in order that a fate, which befell the women of Belgium, of France, and of Serbia, might not be the lot of their own mothers, wives, sisters, and daughters; to protect from sacrilege their churches and chapels, and their homes from the fire and sword, which desolated and left in dismal ruins large portions of the beautiful and civilised towns, and of the fruitful lands over-run by the barbarous enemy. (Applause.) It was inconceivable that they should be so deaf to the call of honour and of gratitude as to hesitate to raise a memorial to the glorious memory of these heroes, and of those who fought by their side, and were either killed or fortunate enough to escape with their lives and limbs. A memorial of the gallant deeds of these noble men must certainly be erected, but, in addition to that, he hoped that some permanent, useful club or institution would be established, which might be open, not only to soldiers, but also to the veterans of the Great War who had left the Colours. The Army was, at present largely composed of young men who had enlisted since the war came to an end. It was right that some soldiers' club should be established, but the men who bore the burden and heat of the day, who fought and bled, that they might live, these were the men they were bound not to forget; these were the men whose lives they desired to brighten; these were the men whom they desired to honour, and to shelter, for the rest of their days on earth from all the hard buffets of the world, and, as far as possible, from the inevitable advance of old age and its accompanying sufferings and disabilities. (Applause.) There surely could be no good reason why the old soldiers and the young ones should not enjoy equally the amenities of a club. In civil life old men and young men were found under the roof of the same club, and the combination of young and old, far from being a hindrance to enjoyment of life, was often found to be grateful to both. (Applause.)

A discussion followed with regard to the best means of organising the County Dublin in support of the Fund, and an Executive was appointed, with the Earl of Meath, H.M.L., as Chairman; Lord HolmPatrick, Abbotstown, Castleknock, as Hon. Secretary, and Mr. T. L. Plunkett, Portmarnock House, and Commander Gaisford St. Lawrence, Howth Castle, as Hon. Treasurers, to whom subscriptions and communications should be addressed.

MR. T. M. HEALY ON IRELAND.

In an article with the caption, "Get Out of Ireland," in yesterday's Sunday Express, Mr. T. M. Healy, K.C., states that there is no Irish question, problem, or difficulty. An English difficulty exists, and is insurmountable. It consists in discovering a royal road to ruling Ireland against her will. The Irish have been fooled many times, Mr. Healy declares, and may be again, but hardly, however, by the same quick-change jugglers. The Prime Minister pipes that the old world is dead. It has not even got the old age pension. The new world, the new spirit, the new hope, the new this, that, and t'other—what baseless fabric do they inhabit? Can any saint bethink him of a new virtue or any sinner of a new vice? What statesman even can now invent a new effective lie?

"Before decanting this old crusted fluid into the columns of the Sunday Express, I turned to the Book of Exodus to glean hints from Moses on the refusal of self-determination to the Hebrews. The great want in the chapters about Pharaoh seemed to me to be their failure to record the advice of the Egyptian mugwumps when the Jews got away. Although the ruling caste needed the coroner after the tenth plague, they uprose from burying their firstborn to conscript an army to fight the Bolsheviks beside the Red Sea. Whitehall is brimful of Pharaohs in waterproofs. Unless bowed under the swish of America's big stick, it is mere waste of time discussing with them plans of settlement for Ireland. If the big stick is shaken, they will find a plan very easily. The prescription will not be compounded meanwhile by the patient. Let the leech learn his trade. You are the rulers. Rule, Britannia!"

TROOPS RETURN FROM RUSSIA.

The troopship Ulva arrived at Leith from North Russia on Saturday afternoon, and disembarked thirty-seven officers and over 1,000 other ranks, all British, with the exception of a few Americans. The troops consisted of men who went to Russia last winter, and also detachments of Jackson's Brigade, and were from the Dvina front. To screen their departure they left a small party which bravely attacked a large force of Bolsheviks, causing heavy losses. The main body meanwhile entered barges, and got down the river without molestation.

Two other troopships from Russia are due at Leith this week.

POLICE SERGEANT'S COMPENSATION CLAIM.

A claim has been lodged with the Clare County Council for £1,000 compensation by Sergeant P. Connell, Inagh, for injuries to his hand, while arresting a prisoner. This brings the amount of claims in Clare to about £40,000 to date.

DRILLING AT TULLAMORE.

At a Special Crimes Court in Tullamore on Saturday, before Mr. G. B. Butler, R.M. (in the chair), and Major Thackeray, R.M., Frank Mooney, Tullamore, was charged by District Inspector Sheehan with unlawful assembly at Tullamore on 17th March, 1918.

It was stated by the inspector that a warrant had then been issued for Mooney's arrest, and that it was only on the 12th inst. that he was found.

Head Constable Acheson deposed that Mooney was in charge of 60 men, whom he was drilling in the market square on St. Patrick's morning, 1918. Mooney was in Irish Volunteer uniform, and the men wore belts and bandoliers.

When asked if he had anything to say, the defendant replied that he was a soldier of the Irish Republic, and did not recognise the Court.

Defendant was ordered to enter into bail to keep the peace; in default of giving security to be imprisoned for one month. He declined to give bail, and was conveyed to Mountjoy Prison.

GOVERNMENT AND SINN FEIN PRESS.

SIX WEEKLY PAPERS STOPPED.

SINN FEIN LOAN SEQUEL.

As a result of visits paid to several printing establishments in Dublin on Saturday morning by police and military a number of Sinn Fein and Labour papers published in the city have been suppressed, this action being taken by the authorities, it is understood, in consequence of the publication in these journals of the advertisement relating to the Sinn Fein loan. Copies of the papers found in the various offices were seized by the police and military, and in two instances the printing machinery was dismantled and carried off. Parties of police and military arrived in motor waggons at three of the city printing establishments almost simultaneously. The visit naturally created some excitement, but the searches and seizures made were marked by no untoward incident.

At about 11 o'clock a party of soldiers, fully armed, and wearing trench helmets, arrived at the Wood Printing Works in Fleet street, where the Irish World, edited by Mr. P. S. O'Hegarty, and New Ireland, edited by Mr. P. J. Little, are printed. A number of policemen in uniform and plain clothes, accompanied by a superintendent, were also present. The latter entered the premises, and presented Mr. Flanagan, secretary of the firm, with an order which authorised the seizure of all copies of the current issues of the two papers and the dismantling of the machinery, so as to ensure that the papers would not be again published without permission. A sergeant of the Royal Engineers then removed the vital parts, which were taken away by the military, as well as all copies of the current issues, these comprising two copies of the Irish World and a couple of dozen copies of New Ireland, which were all that remained in stock when carried away. Mr. Sean O Muirthile, manager of the Irish World, and Mr. P. J. Little, editor of New Ireland, arrived in Fleet street while the search was proceeding, but were refused admission to their respective offices during the operations.

The premises of Mr. P. Mahon, T.C., in Yarnhall street, where Nationality, the Sinn Fein organ, edited by Mr. Arthur Griffith, M.P., and Fainne an Lae, the Gaelic League organ, edited by Mr. Colum Murphy, were also visited by military and police, the former having two military waggons with them. A police superintendent saw Mr. Mahon, who was on the premises at the time, and informed him that the place would be searched. Mr. Mahon admitted that he printed the two journals mentioned, and brought the military and police officer to the works. All copies of the two papers in stock were handed over. The formes of the current issue of Nationality were lying on the printing machine used for printing the two papers, and one of these was broken up, and linotype matter handed over to the officers. The machinery was then dismantled, and the vital parts taken away. A thorough search of the premises was made, and Mr. Mahon was warned that he was not to print Nationality or Fainne an Lae in future without permission. Mr. Mahon and Mr. Murphy, who arrived at the establishment shortly after the raid, both expressed the opinion that the suppression took place because of the appearance of the advertisement in regard to the Sinn Fein loan in these papers last week.

The third printing establishment visited by soldiers and police was that belonging to Messrs. Cahill, Ormond quay, where the papers printed by them, The Voice of Labour, a Labour-Socialist organ, edited by Mr. Cathal O'Shannon, and The Republic, edited by Mr. Darrell Figgis, were suppressed. Police officers who entered the premises accompanied by military informed the secretary of the firm that they had come to suppress the two journals mentioned. They requested to be shown the type used in the production of these papers, and seized what had been set for next week's issues. They intimated that the firm were not to print or publish any further issues of the papers until they had the permission of the authorities. All copies in stock of the two papers were confiscated and taken away by the military. None of the machinery was dismantled.

"CORK EXAMINER" TO RESUME PUBLICATION.

Our Cork Correspondent telegraphed last night:—The proprietors of the Cork Examiner announce that they will resume publication on Monday morning. In consequence of the publication in that journal of the Dail Eireann's Loan prospectus, a party of military and police removed the vital parts of the machinery and seized all papers containing the prospectus last Wednesday. These parts were returned to-day and the restrictions on publication removed.

PROVINCIAL PAPERS SEIZED.

On Saturday morning the Dundalk police visited the local newsagencies and took away all copies of the Dundalk Examiner, the local Sinn Fein paper, published that morning. The printing office of the paper was also visited, but there was no interference with the printing plant. Newsboys selling the paper on the streets were also requested to hand over all copies. It is understood that the seizure followed on the publication of a full-page advertisement of the Sinn Fein loan.

MIDLETON NEWSPAPER SHOP SEARCHED.

A newspaper shop at Midleton was searched by the police on Saturday morning, and some copies of papers, such as Nationality, were seized and taken away. Posters referring to the holding of the Dail Eireann Fund Meeting at Midleton on Sunday were torn down from the dead walls of the town by the police, as the meeting had been prohibited by the authorities.

MR. ETCHINGHAM AND THE SINN FEIN LOAN.

Mr. Sean Etchingham, M.P. for East Wicklow, speaking at an aeridheacht yesterday at Kilmacanogue, near Bray, said that the Sinn Feiners were delighted with the raids and proclamations, because they showed what England was up against in Ireland. The Sinn Fein loan was proclaimed and suppressed, but its success would prove to the world that they were in earnest in their demand for freedom. The money was to be devoted to the acquisition of land, the development of uneconomic holdings, and fisheries.

Mr. Byrne said that the loan was not for political purposes.

A serious outbreak of fire occurred shortly after midday on Saturday at the Shaughnessy Military Hospital, Vancouver, which threatened to destroy two wings of the building. The patients were removed.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

THE BALTIC STATES AND THE ALLIES.

Discussing the position in the Baltic States, The Times declares that there is too much reason to believe the assertion of the German newspaper, Freiheit, that Courland is being slowly converted into a gigantic military camp. The process, it would further seem, has been carried on actively within the last fortnight. There is no mistaking what this activity means. There is no doubt that a powerful "Militarist" and Reactionary Party have long been bent upon creating a formidable German Army in the Baltic Provinces, and that this aim of theirs commands a large measure of sympathy from nearly all classes in Germany. What, asks The Times, is the present attitude of the Allies and Associates, and of Mr. Lloyd George's Government, in the face of the German attempts to begin the execution of this daring policy—a policy which is intimately connected with monarchical projects in Germany and Russia? The kind of assurances which have been issued lately in Paris and London are altogether insufficient to satisfy the public, or to satisfy our Allies and Associates. We are referred to Mr. Churchill's recent statement—meaning presumably the War Office statement of September 11—and told that there has been "no new development or change of policy regarding Russia." Mr. Churchill, in this statement, pointed out the dangers plainly enough, but all he could tell us so far as the Baltic States are concerned was that "they have for some time engaged the attention of the Peace Conference in Paris." They are now "engaging the attention" of the Governments of these little States themselves. Clearly these Governments are reluctant to make terms with the Bolshevists. The course and the suspension of the negotiations show that. But it is equally clear that they are beginning to feel unable to stand by themselves. They must either make terms with the Bolshevists or obtain support, at least in arms and material, to resist them. They know the Bolshevists, and they shudder at the prospect of entering into relations with them. The report made to the American Senate and the statements of Mr. Dukes are among the evidence that their fears are just. They would welcome the assistance of the Associates and Allies if it were forthcoming at once, but they cannot wait, "and in the meantime they remain undoubtedly the subject of German policy, pursuing devious, but highly destructive channels, in all these regions." Is it to pursue them unimpeded while the matter continues to "engage the attention of the Peace Conference in Paris?" If it is, von der Goltz and his associates have good reason to hope for its early success, and for the ultimate consequences of that success which President Wilson has foretold.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

In the emergency of war time, observes The Times, the British people surrendered to the Executive many of their ancient liberties, and not the least concession was the admission of the institution of Press censorship. It is because we regard the right of free expression of opinion as the inalienable heritage of every British citizen that we have seen, with some measure of apprehension, the report of the recent suppression of a group of newspapers in Cork, followed on Saturday by that of a general "rounding up" of the weekly Sinn Fein Press of Dublin. Into the specific merits or demerits of the Government action in these cases we do not at the moment propose to enter. The Irish Executive enjoys, under the Defence of the Realm Regulations, the widest powers in relation to Press offences, and, doubtless, the present condition in Ireland, held, as it is, in the grip of a resolute and insubordinate organisation, justifies extraordinary precautions and sanctions. But, even so, we confess, as directly concerned in the maintenance of a great principle, to a vigilant jealousy of any departure from it within this realm, unless that departure is demonstrably authorised by the most urgent public necessity, and takes place under definite and generally known conditions. In matters of censorship Ireland, since 1916, has been subject to a marked differentiation from Great Britain. It was, on the whole, discharged with tact, knowledge, and a reasonableness which won from the Irish Press a readier acceptance of superintendence than might have been expected. To the Censorship, impartiality and fairness were generally attributed, and, of all the instruments employed by the Irish Government during the past few years, it received the widest toleration, and was by no means the least effective. Now it has become apparent that the Irish Government intend to enforce, at their own discretion and in drastic measure, the great statutory powers which they possess. These powers are so wide, so indefinite, and potentially so subversive of the principle for which we contend, that we think it right that their exercise should be closely scrutinised, and also that the public should be exactly informed of the policy which now governs the Irish Executive in their relations to the Irish Press.

LORD GREY'S DEPARTURE.

Referring to the departure of Lord Grey for the United States, The Times remarks that, as no other in modern times, Lord Grey has for years looked peril in the eyes steadily and without dismay, but with complete knowledge of its threat. He has watched the pointer of the balance waver between peace and war, knowing that a single careless word might set it swinging irrevocably the wrong way. To have endured that test without sacrifice of frankness, but with no justly indictable lapse into provocation, is to have proved complete familiarity with the dangerous alley-ways of pre-war European politics. No task can be greater now, and for some years to come, than to mobilise for peace that idealism of the English-speaking peoples which war mobilised, and has now released from its yoke. All will depend in the future on the spirit in which the results of this new closeness of the Continents and the nations are approached, and in that decision the peoples of the United States and of the British Empire must take a leading part.

LIQUOR CONTROL AND DRUNKENNESS.

Mr. P. C. Morgan, Secretary of the Brewers' Society, writes to The Times, replying to certain questions addressed to the Brewers' Society in a leader on September 8 as to the effect of the reduced output of beer in decreasing drunkenness. Mr. Morgan asserts that the drunkenness due to the consumption of beer has always been small, even when beers were of pre-war strength. Therefore, the reduced quality of beer available cannot have been "the chief cause," if, indeed, it has been a substantial factor at all, in bringing about the diminished convictions. Brewers contend with the utmost confidence that good beer is the most wholesome drink generally available, and recent events have made it clear, we believe, that the public are of the same opinion. The licensed trade have formulated proposals for amending the existing licensing law, and its administration, and have urged upon the Government the desirability of consultation in the hope that the proposals might find a place on the Statute book at the earliest possible moment.

STOP THE WASTE.

Lord Fisher again writes to The Times as follows:—The greatest editor that The Times ever had was Mr. Barnes (saving of course present company). Stuck up in his office was, "Repetition is the soul of journalism." Waste is the present curse! Reduce the Government dockyards to a skeleton, and send the shipwrights thus set free to rebuild the seven million tons of merchant ships that the Germans sent to the bottom of the sea. If we lose our supremacy in merchant shipping, our country is lost. Sack the lot!

RAILWAY GOODS RATES.

We understand, says The Times, that the whole question of the revision of the existing railway goods rates is under expert investigation. It is fully recognised that the present scale does not meet the altered circumstances and that Government action cannot long be delayed.

The Orient Line of steamers to Australia announce a series of fortnightly departures from London, commencing on the 27th inst. These steamers proceed via the Mediterranean, Egypt, and Colombo, calling at Toulon and Naples to

ALLEGED SECRET TREATY.

REMARKABLE ITALIAN REPORT.

An Exchange Company's telegram, dated Genoa, Saturday, says:—The Tempo publishes the text of an alleged secret treaty between Germany and Japan, signed on 2nd of October, 1918. The signatories were—For Japan, Viscount Uchida and Admiral Kato; and for Germany, Herr von Rosen and Herr Renner. The treaty, the Tempo says, was signed at The Hague, but the conferences were begun at Stockholm in June of the same year. The two Powers undertook to obtain, under their direction, discipline at home and the position of a Great Power. Japan undertook to assist Germany in obtaining for Russia transport facilities to Central Asia and Persia, and to facilitate the conclusion of a treaty with Persia and other realms favourable to Germany.

Japan, says the Tempo further agreed to obtain for Germany a "most-favoured-nation" treaty in Middle China. The two contracting parties agreed to prevent the cession of any neighbouring territory to any foreign Power; that is to say—to England or America. Japan agreed to protect German interests at the Peace Conference, in order that Germany should suffer the least possible territorial loss. Japan also agreed to secure for Germany, in accordance with a convention to be concluded with Russia, a pact, with military, economic, and political guarantees, to be put at the disposal of Germany. For her good offices to this end, on her part, Germany agreed to conclude a secret military convention by land and sea, the object of which was the assurance and defence of Japan against the aggressive intentions of England and America.

PEACE-MAKING AT PARIS.

THE GERMAN CONSTITUTION.

LERSNER TO SIGN THE PROTOCOL.

The Press Association's Paris Correspondent announces that at four o'clock this afternoon, at the Trianon, at Versailles, Baron Lersner will sign the protocol demanded by the Allies, by which the German Government recognises that Article 61 of the German Constitution is null and void. The ceremony, at which the French Government will be represented by M. Cambon, will not be a public one.

THE AUSTRIAN TREATY.

RUMANIA'S PROTEST.

Saturday's Paris Temps publishes the text of a memorandum handed by the Rumanian Delegation to the President of the Peace Conference on September 9th, giving reasons for the refusal of Rumania to sign the Treaty with Austria. The document explains at length the attitude of Rumania during the war, shows her military effort, and declares that the situation in which Rumania finds herself is not in accordance with her just expectations. The Note continues—The Treaty with Germany did not grant Rumania reparations in relation to her losses. She signed it to show the value which she attaches to the maintenance, in the Act, of the bonds uniting her to the Allied Powers. But the Treaty with Austria is most injurious, in several points, to her rights and interests. The document enumerates these points, which are already well known, and concludes—The Rumanian Government finds itself obliged to declare that it is not possible for it to adhere to certain clauses inserted in the Austrian Treaty, and it cannot sign it if the Supreme Council does not see its way to reconsider the stipulations which strike at the dignity and interests of the country.

THE POLISH TREATY.

It is learned, says a Press Association telegram, dated Paris, Friday, that at this morning's sitting the Supreme Council received the report of the Special Commission which has drafted the Treaty to be concluded between the Allied Powers and Poland regarding the future status of Galicia. The Draft Treaty provides for the establishment of a Constitution and Government, and the convocation of a Diet.

The Council then dealt with the communication received from Dr. Renner on the serious coal situation in Austria.

M. Loucheur, French Minister of Reconstruction, who was heard by the Council on this subject, declared that if it was true that the neighbouring coal producing countries of Czecho-Slovakia and Poland had not completely fulfilled their obligations for the delivery of coal, the reason was that the quantity produced was insufficient for the two countries themselves.

SERBIA AND THE BULGARIAN TREATY.

In an interview with the Matin regarding the Bulgarian Peace Treaty, says a Reuter's message, dated Paris, Saturday, M. Vesnitch, Serbian delegate to the Peace Conference, said:—My country cannot be at all satisfied with the Treaty which was presented to the Bulgarian delegation. Except for a slight rectification of the frontiers, the necessity of which was obvious, our interests and rights have been obviously sacrificed to such an extent that I will refrain from dwelling on the matter to-day. The indescribable sufferings of our people and the unparalleled pillaging of our countryside, are left unpunished, and without compensation. The martyrdom of our people and the tenacity of our soldiers have not been properly appreciated by our greater Allies, and I sincerely believe that the moral of our future generations will feel it.

The disillusionment seems to be just as great amongst the Greek representatives, adds the Matin. We firmly hope, said a member of the Greek delegation, that the Thracian territories will be ultimately given to us. President Wilson has already renounced the idea of enforcing the ethnical rights of Bulgaria to this part of Thrace. As to an economic outlet to the Ægean Sea that it is proposed to reserve to Bulgaria, M. Venezelos suggested to secure it by internationalising the railway line and the port of Dedeagatch. We were deeply disappointed at seeing that the Treaty left this question in suspense, but we should like to hope that the negotiations will not be interrupted, and that the Supreme Council will settle the question in our favour before the signature of the Treaty of Peace with Bulgaria.

APPOINTMENTS IN THE DIPLOMATIC SERVICE.

The King has been graciously pleased to approve the following appointments in His Majesty's Diplomatic Service:—

CORK MUSIC COMPETITION PREVENTED.

An Irish music competition arranged to be held in Fitzgerald Park, Cork, last evening, and which was to be addressed by Rev. J. O'Flynn, Chairman of the Cork Branch of the Gaelic League, and Professor Hardebeck, Head Master of the Cork School of Music, was suppressed. Notice was served on the promoters that it would not be permitted. A large force of police and military marched to the scene, and took possession. The request of the promoters to be allowed to remove the platform was refused. There were some wild rushes on the part of people who were under the impression that the police were charging, but, fortunately no one was injured. An attempt to hold the meeting in a field a mile distant, without speakers, was frustrated by the authorities, who arrived just in time to disperse it.

IRISH WAR MEMORIAL.

ORGANISATION OF COUNTY DUBLIN.

SPEECH BY LORD MEATH.

A meeting in connection with the Irish National War Memorial Fund, representative of the County Dublin, was held in the Shelbourne Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday afternoon. The Earl of Meath, H.M.L., presided, and among those present were—

Lord HolmPatrick acted as Secretary to the meeting.

The Earl of Meath, H.M.L., in opening the meeting, said that he had called them together in order to accede to a request he had received from the Lord Lieutenant to organise the County of Dublin for the purpose of collecting subscriptions for the Irish National War Memorial Fund, and for obtaining information as to the names of soldiers belonging to the county who served or fell in the Great War. They were all, doubtless, aware that the City of Dublin had already been ably organised for the same purpose, and that considerable sums of money had been obtained. Lord French desired to see the County Dublin similarly organised, and he was sure that those of them who resided in the county would not wish it to be less efficiently organised than was the city. Some of them already occupied seats on the General Committee of the Fund, and had already been working energetically for the city. To these his special thanks were due for the public spirit they were displaying by extending the operations of their energies in the interests of the memorial. Lord French had expressed to him his great regret at not being able to be present there that day, but he had already, by voice and pen, given such eloquent and convincing expression to the arguments in support of his appeal that it was unnecessary for him (the Chairman) to repeat them, or to endeavour to elaborate or add to them. It was sufficient to say that for nearly five years they had been engaged in a life and death struggle with powerful and ruthless enemy nations, banded together for the purpose of crushing liberty wherever it might be found, and for placing the world under the heel of an iron military despotism. (Applause.) Thousands of Irishmen of all classes, and belonging to different beliefs, which they realised the horrors which threatened their beloved land, should the enemy have proved successful, rushed voluntarily to the fray, and deliberately sacrificed their lives in order that a fate, which befell the women of Belgium, of France, and of Serbia, might not be the lot of their own mothers, wives, sisters, and daughters; to protect from sacrilege their churches and chapels, and their homes from the fire and sword, which desolated and left in dismal ruins large portions of the beautiful and civilised towns, and of the fruitful lands over-run by the barbarous enemy. (Applause.) It was inconceivable that they should be so deaf to the call of honour and of gratitude as to hesitate to raise a memorial to the glorious memory of these heroes, and of those who fought by their side, and were either killed or fortunate enough to escape with their lives and limbs. A memorial of the gallant deeds of these noble men must certainly be erected, but, in addition to that, he hoped that some permanent, useful club or institution would be established, which might be open, not only to soldiers, but also to the veterans of the Great War who had left the Colours. The Army was at present largely composed of young men who had enlisted since the war came to an end. It was right that some soldiers' club should be established, but the men who bore the burden and heat of the day, who fought and bled, that they might live, these were the men they were bound not to forget: these were the men whose lives they desired to brighten, these were the men whom they desired to honour, and to shelter for the rest of their days on earth from all the hard buffets of the world, and, as far as possible, from the inevitable advance of old age and its accompanying sufferings and disabilities. (Applause.) There surely could be no good reason why the old soldiers and the young ones should not enjoy equally the amenities of a club. In civil life old men and young men were found under the roof of the same club, and the combination of young and old, far from being a hindrance to enjoyment of life, was often found to be grateful to both. (Applause.)

A discussion followed with regard to the best means of organising the County Dublin in support of the Fund, and an Executive was appointed, with the Earl of Meath, H.M.L., as Chairman; Lord HolmPatrick, Abbotstown, Castleknock, as Hon. Secretary, and Mr. T. L. Plunkett, Portmarnock House, and Commander Gaisford St. Lawrence, Howth Castle, as Hon. Treasurers, to whom subscriptions and communications should be addressed.

"MR. T. M. HEALY ON IRELAND.

In an article with the caption, "Get Out of Ireland," in yesterday's Sunday Express, Mr. T. M. Healy, K.C., states that there is no Irish question, problem, or difficulty. An English difficulty exists, and is insurmountable. It consists in discovering a royal road to ruling Ireland against her will. The Irish have been fooled many times, Mr. Healy declares, and may be again, but hardly, however, by the same quick-change jugglers. The Prime Minister pipes that the old world is dead. It has not even got the old age pension. The new world, the new spirit, the new hope, the new this, that, and t'other—what baseless fabric do they inhabit? Can any saint bethink him of a new virtue or any sinner of a new vice? What statesman even can now invent a new effective lie?

"Before decanting this old crusted fluid into the columns of the Sunday Express, I turned to the Book of Exodus to glean hints from Moses on the refusal of self-determination to the Hebrews. The great want in the chapters about Pharaoh seemed to me to be their failure to record the advice of the Egyptian mugwumps when the Jews got away. Although the ruling caste needed the coroner after the tenth plague, they uprose from burying their firstborn to conscript an army to fight the Bolsheviks beside the Red Sea. Whitehall is brimful of Pharaohs in waterproofs. Unless bowed under the swish of America's big stick, it is mere waste of time discussing with them plans of settlement for Ireland. If the big stick is shaken, they will find a plan very easily. The prescription will not be compounded meanwhile by the patient. Let the leech learn his trade. You are the rulers. Rule, Britannia!"

TROOPS RETURN FROM RUSSIA.

The troopship Ulva arrived at Leith from North Russia on Saturday afternoon, and disembarked thirty-seven officers and over 1,000 other ranks, all British, with the exception of a few Americans. The troops consisted of men who went to Russia last winter, and also detachments of Jackson's Brigade, and were from the Dvina front. To screen their departure they left a small party which bravely attacked a large force of Bolsheviks, causing heavy losses. The main body meanwhile entered barges, and got down the river without molestation.

Two other troopships from Russia are due at Leith this week.

POLICE SERGEANT'S COMPENSATION CLAIM.

A claim has been lodged with the Clare County Council for £1,000 compensation by Sergeant P. Connell, Inagh, for injuries to his hand, while arresting a prisoner. This brings the amount of claims in Clare to about £40,000 to date.

DRILLING AT TULLAMORE.

At a Special Crimes Court in Tullamore on Saturday, before Mr. G. B. Butler, R.M. (in the chair), and Major Thackeray, R.M., Frank Mooney, Tullamore, was charged by District Inspector Sheehan with unlawful assembly at Tullamore on 17th March, 1918.

It was stated by the inspector that a warrant had then been issued for Mooney's arrest, and that it was only on the 12th inst. that he was found.

Head Constable Acheson deposed that Mooney was in charge of 60 men, whom he was drilling in the market square on St. Patrick's morning, 1918. Mooney was in Irish Volunteer uniform, and the men wore belts and bandoliers.

When asked if he had anything to say, the defendant replied that he was a soldier of the Irish Republic, and did not recognise the Court.

Defendant was ordered to enter into bail to keep the peace; in default of giving security to be imprisoned for one month. He declined to give bail, and was conveyed to Mountjoy Prison.

GOVERNMENT AND SINN FEIN PRESS.

SIX WEEKLY PAPERS STOPPED.

SINN FEIN LOAN SEQUEL.

As a result of visits paid to several printing establishments in Dublin on Saturday morning by police and military a number of Sinn Fein and Labour papers published in the city have been suppressed, this action being taken by the authorities, it is understood, in consequence of the publication in these journals of the advertisement relating to the Sinn Fein loan. Copies of the papers found in the various offices were seized by the police and military, and in two instances the printing machinery was dismantled and carried off. Parties of police and military arrived in motor waggons at three of the city printing establishments almost simultaneously. The visit naturally created some excitement, but the searches and seizures made were marked by no untoward incident.

At about 11 o'clock a party of soldiers, fully armed, and wearing trench helmets, arrived at the Wood Printing Works in Fleet street, where the Irish World, edited by Mr. P. S. O'Hegarty, and New Ireland, edited by Mr. P. J. Little, are printed. A number of policemen in uniform and plain clothes, accompanied by a superintendent, were also present. The latter entered the premises, and presented Mr. Flanagan, secretary of the firm, with an order which authorised the seizure of all copies of the current issues of the two papers and the dismantling of the machinery, so as to ensure that the papers would not be again published without permission. A sergeant of the Royal Engineers then removed the vital parts, which were taken away by the military, as well as all copies of the current issues, these comprising two copies of the Irish World and a couple of dozen copies of New Ireland, which were all that remained in stock when carried away. Mr. Sean O'Muirthille, manager of the Irish World, and Mr. P. J. Little, editor of New Ireland, arrived in Fleet street while the search was proceeding, but were refused admission to their respective offices during the operations.

The premises of Mr. P. Mahon, T.C., in Yarnhall street, where Nationality, the Sinn Fein organ, edited by Mr. Arthur Griffith, M.P., and Fainne an Lae, the Gaelic League organ, edited by Mr. Colum Murphy, were also visited by military and police, the former having two military waggons with them. A police superintendent saw Mr. Mahon, who was on the premises at the time, and informed him that the place would be searched. Mr. Mahon admitted that he printed the two journals mentioned, and brought the military and police officer to the works. All copies of the two papers in stock were handed over. The formes of the current issue of Nationality were lying on the printing machine used for printing the two papers, and one of these was broken up, and linotype matter handed over to the officers. The machinery was then dismantled, and the vital parts taken away. A thorough search of the premises was made, and Mr. Mahon was warned that he was not to print Nationality or Fainne an Lae in future without permission. Mr. Mahon and Mr. Murphy, who arrived at the establishment shortly after the raid, both expressed the opinion that the suppression took place because of the appearance of the advertisement in regard to the Sinn Fein loan in these papers last week.

The third printing establishment visited by soldiers and police was that belonging to Messrs. Cahill, Ormond quay, where the papers printed by them, The Voice of Labour, a Labour-Socialist organ, edited by Mr. Cathal O'Shannon, and The Republic, edited by Mr. Darrell Figgis, were suppressed. Police officers who entered the premises accompanied by military informed the secretary of the firm that they had come to suppress the two journals mentioned. They requested to be shown the type used in the production of these papers, and seized what had been set for next week's issues. They intimated that the firm were not to print or publish any further issues of the papers until they had the permission of the authorities. All copies in stock of the two papers were confiscated and taken away by the military. None of the machinery was dismantled.

"CORK EXAMINER" TO RESUME PUBLICATION.

Our Cork Correspondent telegraphed last night:—The proprietors of the Cork Examiner announce that they will resume publication on Monday morning. In consequence of the publication in that journal of the Dail Eireann's Loan prospectus, a party of military and police removed the vital parts of the machinery and seized all papers containing the prospectus last Wednesday. These parts were returned to-day and the restrictions on publication removed.

PROVINCIAL PAPERS SEIZED.

On Saturday morning the Dundalk police visited the local newsagencies and took away all copies of the Dundalk Examiner, the local Sinn Fein paper, published that morning. The printing office of the paper was also visited, but there was no interference with the printing plant. Newsboys selling the paper on the streets were also requested to hand over all copies. It is understood that the seizure followed on the publication of a full-page advertisement of the Sinn Fein loan.

Copies of the Midland Tribune were seized by the police at Roscrea and Cloghan, King's Co., on Saturday. The issue contained a full-page advertisement of the Sinn Fein loan.

MIDLETON NEWSPAPER SHOP SEARCHED.

A newspaper shop at Midleton was searched by the police on Saturday morning, and some copies of papers, such as Nationality, were seized and taken away. Posters referring to the holding of the Dail Eireann Fund Meeting at Midleton on Sunday were torn down from the dead walls of the town by the police, as the meeting had been prohibited by the authorities.

MR. ETCHINGHAM AND THE SINN FEIN LOAN.

Mr. Sean Etchingham, M.P. for East Wicklow, speaking at an aeridheacht yesterday at Kilmacanogue, near Bray, said that the Sinn Feiners were delighted with the raids and proclamations, because they showed what England was up against in Ireland. The Sinn Fein loan was proclaimed and suppressed, but its success would prove to the world that they were in earnest in their demand for freedom. The money was to be devoted to the acquisition of land, the development of uneconomic holdings, and fisheries.

Mr. Byrne said that the loan was not for a political purpose.

A serious outbreak of fire occurred shortly after midday on Saturday at the Shaughnessy Military Hospital, Vancouver, which threatened to destroy two wings of the building. The patients were removed.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

THE BALTIC STATES AND THE ALLIES.

Discussing the position in the Baltic States, The Times declares that there is too much reason to believe the assertion of the German newspaper, Freiheit, that Courland is being slowly converted into a gigantic military camp. The process, it would further seem, has been carried on actively within the last fortnight. There is no mistaking what this activity means. There is no doubt that a powerful "Militarist" and Reactionary Party have long been bent upon creating a formidable German Army in the Baltic Provinces, and that this aim of theirs commands a large measure of sympathy from nearly all classes in Germany. What, asks The Times, is the present attitude of the Allies and Associates, and of Mr. Lloyd George's Government, in the face of the German attempts to begin the execution of this daring policy—a policy which is intimately connected with monarchical projects in Germany and Russia? The kind of assurances which have been issued lately in Paris and London are altogether insufficient to satisfy the public, or to satisfy our Allies and Associates. We are referred to Mr. Churchill's recent statement—meaning presumably the War Office statement of September 11—and told that there has been "no new development or change of policy regarding Russia." Mr. Churchill, in this statement, pointed out the dangers plainly enough, but all he could tell us so far as the Baltic States are concerned was that "they have for some time engaged the attention of the Peace Conference in Paris." They are now "engaging the attention" of the Governments of these little States themselves. Clearly these Governments are reluctant to make terms with the Bolshevists. The course and the suspension of the negotiations show that. But it is equally clear that they are beginning to feel unable to stand by themselves. They must either make terms with the Bolshevists or obtain support, at least in arms and material, to resist them. They know the Bolshevists, and they shudder at the prospect of entering into relations with them. The report made to the American Senate and the statements of Mr. Dukes are among the evidence that their fears are just. They would welcome the assistance of the Associates and Allies if it were forthcoming at once, but they cannot wait, "and in the meantime they remain undoubtedly the subject of German policy, pursuing devious, but highly destructive channels, in all these regions." Is it to pursue them unimpeded while the matter continues to "engage the attention of the Peace Conference in Paris?" If it is, von der Goltz and his associates have good reason to hope for its early success, and for the ultimate consequences of that success which President Wilson has foretold.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

In the emergency of war time, observes The Times, the British people surrendered to the Executive many of their ancient liberties, and not the least concession was the admission of the institution of Press censorship. It is because we regard the right of free expression of opinion as the inalienable heritage of every British citizen that we have seen, with some measure of apprehension, the report of the recent suppression of a group of newspapers in Cork, followed on Saturday by that of a general "rounding up" of the weekly Sinn Fein Press of Dublin. Into the specific merits or demerits of the Government action in these cases we do not at the moment propose to enter. The Irish Executive enjoys, under the Defence of the Realm Regulations, the widest powers in relation to Press offences, and, doubtless, the present condition in Ireland, held, as it is, in the grip of a resolute and insubordinate organisation, justifies extraordinary precautions and sanctions. But, even so, we confess, as directly concerned in the maintenance of a great principle, to a vigilant jealousy of any departure from it within this realm, unless that departure is demonstrably authorised by the most urgent public necessity, and takes place under definite and generally known conditions. In matters of censorship, Ireland, since 1916, has been subject to a marked differentiation from Great Britain. It was, on the whole, discharged with tact, knowledge, and a reasonableness which won from the Irish Press a readier acceptance of superintendence than might have been expected. To the Censorship, impartiality and fairness were generally attributed, and, of all the instruments employed by the Irish Government during the past few years, it received the widest toleration, and was by no means the least effective. Now it has become apparent that the Irish Government intend to enforce, at their own discretion and in drastic measure, the great statutory powers which they possess. These powers are so wide, so indefinite, and potentially so subversive of the principle for which we contend, that we think it right that their exercise should be closely scrutinised, and also that the public should be exactly informed of the policy which now governs the Irish Executive in their relations to the Irish Press.

LORD GREY'S DEPARTURE.

Referring to the departure of Lord Grey for the United States, The Times remarks that, as no other in modern times, Lord Grey has for years looked peril in the eyes steadily and without dismay, but with complete knowledge of its threat. He has watched the pointer of the balance waver between peace and war, knowing that a single careless word might set it swinging irrevocably the wrong way. To have endured that test without sacrifice of frankness, but with no justly indictable lapse into provocation, is to have proved complete familiarity with the dangerous alley-ways of pre-war European politics. No task can be greater now, and for some years to come, than to mobilise for peace that idealism of the English-speaking peoples which war mobilised, and has now released from its yoke. All will depend in the future on the spirit in which the results of this new closeness of the Continents and the nations are approached, and in that decision the peoples of the United States and of the British Empire must take a leading part.

LIQUOR CONTROL AND DRUNKENNESS.

Mr. P. C. Morgan, Secretary of the Brewers' Society, writes to The Times, replying to certain questions addressed to the Brewers' Society in a leader on September 8 as to the effect of the reduced output of beer in decreasing drunkenness. Mr. Morgan asserts that the drunkenness due to the consumption of beer has always been small, even when beers were of pre-war strength. Therefore, the reduced quality of beer available cannot have been "the chief cause," if, indeed, it has been a substantial factor at all, in bringing about the diminished convictions. Brewers contend with the utmost confidence that good beer is the most wholesome drink generally available, and recent events have made it clear, we believe, that the public are of the same opinion. The licensed trade have formulated proposals for amending the existing licensing law, and its administration, and have urged upon the Government the desirability of consultation in the hope that the proposals might find a place on the Statute book at the earliest possible moment.

STOP THE WASTE.

Lord Fisher again writes to The Times as follows:—The greatest editor that The Times ever had was Mr. Barnes (saving of course present company). Stuck up in his office was, "Repetition is the soul of journalism." Waste is the present curse! Reduce the Government dockyards to a skeleton, and send the shipwrights thus set free to rebuild the seven million tons of merchant ships that the Germans sent to the bottom of the sea. If we lose our supremacy in merchant shipping, our country is lost. Sack the lot!

RAILWAY GOODS RATES.

We understand, says The Times, that the whole question of the revision of the existing railway goods rates is under expert investigation. It is fully recognised that the present scale does not meet the altered circumstances and that Government action cannot long be delayed.

The Orient Line of steamers to Australia announce a series of fortnightly departures from London, commencing on the 27th inst. These steamers proceed via the Mediterranean, Egypt, and Colombo, calling at Toulon and Naples to

ALLEGED SECRET TREATY.

REMARKABLE ITALIAN REPORT.

An Exchange Company's telegram, dated Genoa, Saturday, says:—The Tempo publishes the text of an alleged secret treaty between Germany and Japan, signed on 2nd of October, 1918. The signatories were—For Japan, Viscount Uchida and Admiral Kato; and for Germany, Herr von Rosen and Herr Renner. The treaty, the Tempo says, was signed at The Hague, but the conferences were begun at Stockholm in June of the same year. The two Powers undertook to obtain, under their direction, discipline at home and the position of a Great Power. Japan undertook to assist Germany in obtaining for Russia transport facilities to Central Asia and Persia, and to facilitate the conclusion of a treaty with Persia and other realms favourable to Germany.

Japan, says the Tempo further agreed to obtain for Germany a "most-favoured-nation" treaty in Middle China. The two contracting parties agreed to prevent the cession of any neighbouring territory to any foreign Power: that is to say—to England or America. Japan agreed to protect German interests at the Peace Conference, in order that Germany should suffer the least possible territorial loss. Japan also agreed to secure for Germany, in accordance with a convention to be concluded with Russia, a pact, with military, economic, and political guarantees, to be put at the disposal of Germany. For her good offices to this end, on her part, Germany agreed to conclude a secret military convention by land and sea, the object of which was the assurance and defence of Japan against the aggressive intentions of England and America.

PEACE-MAKING AT PARIS.

THE GERMAN CONSTITUTION.

LERSNER TO SIGN THE PROTOCOL.

The Press Association's Paris Correspondent announces that at four o'clock this afternoon, at the Trianon, at Versailles, Baron Lersner will sign the protocol demanded by the Allies, by which the German Government recognises that Article 61 of the German Constitution is null and void. The ceremony, at which the French Government will be represented by M. Cambon, will not be a public one.

THE AUSTRIAN TREATY.

RUMANIA'S PROTEST.

Saturday's Paris Temps publishes the text of a memorandum handed by the Rumanian Delegation to the President of the Peace Conference on September 9th, giving reasons for the refusal of Rumania to sign the Treaty with Austria. The document explains at length the attitude of Rumania during the war, shows her military effort, and declares that the situation in which Rumania finds herself is not in accordance with her just expectations. The Note continues—The Treaty with Germany did not grant Rumania reparations in relation to her losses. She signed it to show the value which she attaches to the maintenance, in the Act, of the bonds uniting her to the Allied Powers. But the Treaty with Austria is most injurious, in several points, to her rights and interests. The document enumerates these points, which are already well known, and concludes—The Rumanian Government finds itself obliged to declare that it is not possible for it to adhere to certain clauses inserted in the Austrian Treaty, and it cannot sign it if the Supreme Council does not see its way to reconsider the stipulations which strike at the dignity and interests of the country.

THE POLISH TREATY.

It is learned, says a Press Association telegram, dated Paris, Friday, that at this morning's sitting the Supreme Council received the report of the Special Commission which has drafted the Treaty to be concluded between the Allied Powers and Poland regarding the future status of Galicia. The Draft Treaty provides for the establishment of a Constitution and Government, and the convocation of a Diet.

The Council then dealt with the communication received from Dr. Renner on the serious coal situation in Austria.

M. Loucheur, French Minister of Reconstruction, who was heard by the Council on this subject, declared that if it was true that the neighbouring coal producing countries of Czecho-Slovakia and Poland had not completely fulfilled their obligations for the delivery of coal, the reason was that the quantity produced was insufficient for the two countries themselves.

SERBIA AND THE BULGARIAN TREATY.

In an interview with the Matin regarding the Bulgarian Peace Treaty, says a Reuter's message, dated Paris, Saturday, M. Vesnitch, Serbian delegate to the Peace Conference, said:—My country cannot be at all satisfied with the Treaty which was presented to the Bulgarian delegation. Except for a slight rectification of the frontiers, the necessity of which was obvious, our interests and rights have been obviously sacrificed to such an extent that I will refrain from dwelling on the matter to-day. The indescribable sufferings of our people and the unparalleled pillaging of our countryside, are left unpunished, and without compensation. The martyrdom of our people and the tenacity of our soldiers have not been properly appreciated by our greater Allies, and I sincerely believe that the moral of our future generations will feel it.

The disillusionment seems to be just as great amongst the Greek representatives, adds the Matin. We firmly hope, said a member of the Greek delegation, that the Thracian territories will be ultimately given to us. President Wilson has already renounced the idea of enforcing the ethnical rights of Bulgaria to this part of Thrace. As to an economic outlet to the Ægean Sea that it is proposed to reserve to Bulgaria, M. Venezelos suggested to secure it by internationalising the railway line and the port of Dedeagatch. We were deeply disappointed at seeing that the Treaty left this question in suspense, but we should like to hope that the negotiations will not be interrupted, and that the Supreme Council will settle the question in our favour before the signature of the Treaty of Peace with Bulgaria.

APPOINTMENTS IN THE DIPLOMATIC SERVICE.

The King has been graciously pleased to approve the following appointments in His Majesty's Diplomatic Service:—

Sir Charles N. E. Eliot, K.C.M.G., C.B., His Majesty's High Commissioner and Consul-General in Siberia, to be His Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Japan.

The Hon. Ernest S. Scott, C.M.G., M.V.O., Counsellor at His Majesty's Legation at Teheran, to be His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Her Imperial Majesty the Empress of Ethiopia.

Mr. Dayrell E. M. Crackenthorpe, C.M.G., Counsellor of His Majesty's Embassy at Madrid, to be His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Republics of Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, and Salvador.

CORK MUSIC COMPETITION PREVENTED.

An Irish music competition arranged to be held in Fitzgerald Park, Cork, last evening, and which was to be addressed by Rev. J. O'Flynn, Chairman of the Cork Branch of the Gaelic League, and Professor Hardebeck, Head Master of the Cork School of Music, was suppressed. Notice was served on the promoters that it would not be permitted. A large force of police and military marched to the scene, and took possession. The request of the promoters to be allowed to remove the platform was refused. There were some wild rushes on the part of people who were under the impression that the police were charging, but, fortunately no one was injured. An attempt to hold the meeting in a field a mile distant, without speakers, was frustrated by the authorities, who arrived just in time to disperse it.

SOVIET RUSSIA AND PEACE.

WILLING TO NEGOTIATE

ON ENTENTE'S BASIS.

PLIGHT OF PETROGRAD.

The Press Association's Stockholm Correspondent, in a message dated Saturday, says:—The Hufvudstadsbladet learns from Petrograd that the Soviet Government has resolved to authorise the People's Commissaries to enter into peace negotiations with the Entente Powers, on a basis laid down by the latter.

According to a Helsingfors message, the same journal publishes a letter from a correspondent, in the course of which he writes:—"The question of war or peace depends on Great Britain. If Great Britain withdraws her helping hand, Esthonia's entire economic system, which is now verging on bankruptcy, will collapse."

The North-West Russian Government's organ states that the report that an agreement has been made between the North-West Russian Government and Great Britain is unfounded.

The Exchange Company's Copenhagen Correspondent writes:—It is reported from Petrograd that there is a wish for peace at any time. The Petrograd Soviet has empowered a Commission to begin negotiations with the Allies on the basis of conditions fixed by them. This statement is said to be correct, as Petrograd is in a bad plight, and wooden houses are being demolished for fuel.

ESTHONIAN DELEGATES MEET BOLSHEVISTS.

Writing on Friday, the Press Association's Helsingfors Correspondent says:—The Helsingin Sanomat learns from Reval, that the Esthonian Peace Delegation has arrived at the station of Isborsk, near Pskoff. Complete calm prevailed on the front. The delegates were met by a Bolshevik delegation, with white flags, whose mission it was to conduct the Esthonians to Pskoff. The reception of the delegates was most courteous. The first meeting was held yesterday.

According to a Helsingfors telegram, dated Saturday, the Helsingin Sanomat, in a message from Reval, states that the Esthonian Peace Delegation returned to Reval on Friday. The paper says that the negotiations, which were of a purely deliberative character, were broken off on account of the demand of the Esthonian Delegation, that the negotiations should be carried on at the same time with those of the neighbouring States, and consequetly, the Esthonian Delegation regarded itself as unable to take the peace offer into positive consideration until an answer from the other Baltic States had been received.

According to the Stockholm Correspondent of the Press Association, the Dagens Nyheter, in a private message from Helsingfors, reports that the chief French Delegate to the Baltic Provinces, General Etienne, arrived at Reval on Thursday with his delegation. It is presumed that his visit is connected with the Russian-Esthonian peace negotiations.

THE GERMANS AND COURLAND.

A Berlin telegram states that a recent Democratic meeting at Tilsit requests the Government to send neither the Staff of General von der Goltz's Army, nor any troops from Courland to Tilsit, under threat of a strike. The Town Council of Tilsit has now passed a similar resolution, after a long and excited debate.

A Press report from Riga says that the Germans are making preparations to spend the winter in Courland.

THE FRENCH ARMY.

350,000 ON PEACE FOOTING.

HOW TROOPS WILL BE RAISED.

Reuter's Paris Correspondent, in a despatch received on Saturday, states that in the French Army Senate Commission M. Doumer communicated a note from the Sub-Committee on Armaments and Troops, dealing with the reorganisation of the French Army. The note says:—

"The Army will be recruited, in the first place, by calling up an annual class for active military service, reduced to one year, on a universal compulsory basis, which will yield 200,000 men instead of 600,000 as previously, and, in the second place, by enlistments and re-enlistments, yielding 150,000 men, and constituting the regular section of the Army, of which the total strength will be 350,000 men.

"France will retain divisions in twenty districts, and the headquarters of the 21st Division will be moved from Espinal to Strasbourg. North Africa will have two army corps, at Algiers and Rabat, and a corps will continue to be formed of colonial troops.

"The army corps of the home army on a peace basis will each contain one active division, instead of two, but will have a reserve division called to complete them. An exception will be made in the case of the army corps on the Eastern frontier, which will contain two active divisions, of which one, maintained at more than full strength, will be on the Rhine. The North African army corps and the Colonial corps will each send a division to the Rhine, thus giving six infantry divisions for the Army of Occupation.

"The cavalry will be reduced to four divisions, out of which it will furnish one division for the Rhine.

"In short, the number of troops in the French Army on a peace footing may be put at 350,000 men, and on a war footing at 1,300,000 men.

"The territorial and reserve forces, with their fifteen classes, will constitute a further reserve of 2,000,000 men for any emergency which cannot be foreseen at present."

ITALIAN CELEBRATIONS.

ENTHUSIASTIC SCENES IN ROME.

A Reuter's Rome telegram of Saturday says:—To-day the forty-ninth anniversary of the deliverance of Rome from Papal rule was celebrated by the inhabitants of the city with their customary fervour. Great animation prevailed in the gaily-decorated streets, and numerous patriotic processions were formed and marched through the city, watched by immense crowds, amidst enthusiastic cheers for the King and the Army. Telegrams of homage and loyalty have been addressed to the King by numerous leagues and associations. In the evening Rome was beautifully illuminated.

The Mayor sent a loyal telegram to the King. The King's reply was as follows:—

"I cordially return the greeting which has been addressed to me in the name of Rome, having emerged from the greatest war with the greatest victory. We can now celebrate the result of our work after so many sacrifices and so much suffering. May an able an tranquil peace be the fruit of victory, and the zeal of industry follow the anxiety of arms. Italy in order to achieve her lofty destiny, desires a united spirit and united action. The faith which has sustained us in the past will still uphold us."

DUBLIN CELEBRATION.

Of special importance in Italy, and, indeed, to Italians all over the world, is September 20th, the day on which is celebrated the unification of the Italian States under the one Sovereign. In Italy a national holiday is observed, and the celebrations are carried out on very festive lines, while further afield the anniversary is commemorated less ambitiously, but nowhere is the day unhonoured. In Dublin the anniversary was observed last Saturday by a morning reception at the Italian Consulate, where Signor Bernardi, the Consul-General for Italy met a large number of the members of the Italian colony, including Signor Repetto, Professor Esposito, Professor Simonetti, Professor Viani, Signor Rabagliatti and about fifty more of his compatriots, many loyal and cordial sentiments were expressed, and Signor Bernardi reciprocated the good wishes and courteous congratulations on behalf of himself and his country.

In the afternoon Signor Bernardi held a reception at the Italian Consulate, 52 Northumberland road. A short musical programme including most charming vocal solos by Miss Kathleen Lloyd and Madlle. le Brocquy gave much pleasure to the guests, amongst whom were:—Lady Brady, Lady Duffey, Colonel and Mrs. Owen Lewis, Colonel and Mrs. O'Hara, the French Consul, Mons. Blanche, Madame and the Madlles. Blanche, Mons. Vacher, French Vice-Consul; Mons. Lafond, Attaché French Consulate; Col. and Mrs. Villiers Tuthill, Mrs. Claude Fulcher, Mrs. Little Hamilton, Mr. Foley, Mrs. and Miss Starkie, and many others. Choice refreshments and tea were served in the diningroom, and Signorina Francesca Bernardi, the Consul-General's little daughter, distributed pretty white satin favours, decorated with the Italian flag, the monogram, "V. V." and inscription, "L'Italia Unita," which will serve as charming souvenirs of a very pleasant reunion.

D'ANNUNZIO AT FIUME.

FOOD STORES SEIZED.

FOREIGNERS ORDERED OUT OF THE TOWN.

APPEAL TO THE ITALIAN PEOPLE.

SEMI-OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

The Geneva Correspondent of the Paris Temps states that Gabrielle D'Annunzio has seized all the food stores in Fiume, and that the people of the city are already said to be short of meat. The message continues:—The Italian Legion ("Sursum Corda") has posted up Proclamations in the town ordering all Croats, Magyars, and Germans to leave Fiume immediately. The Italian soldiers force young Slav women to wear the tricolour cockades. Many of the chief people of Fiume have left. On Thursday evening D'Annunzio received delegates from Sussak, the entirely Slav quarter of the city. D'Annunzio declared that he took no responsibility as regards Sussak, but would guarantee the lives and goods of the population. The delegates replied that under the administration of General Crasioli the same promises had been made to them, and that the Jugo-Slavs had, nevertheless, suffered ill-treatment. He informed D'Annunzio that since his arrival about 400 Slavs from Fiume and 135 Jugo-Slavs from Sussak had been imprisoned, and that several men had been killed, including Ardite.

SEMI-OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

An Italian semi-official statement on the events in Fiume says:—The reports which have been appearing in several newspapers are greatly exaggerated, whilst some are devoid of all foundation, particularly those relating to the strength of the forces now in Fiume and to the identity of the corps to which they belong. In the neighbourhood of the armistice line and in Dalmatia movements of Jugo-Slav troops and a concentration of detachments formed of Jugo-Slav Volunteers have been reported. General Badoglio is making arrangements for very vigilant supervision everywhere.

A Rome telegram states that the Temps says that before the arrival of D'Annunzio in Fiume, some Jugo-Slav contingents were ready to enter the city, if necessary, to support the British police. The entire population had taken an oath that no policeman of foreign nationality should be allowed in the streets of the city. In this, the paper adds, there was no resentment against the British, but a suspicion that the Croats were trying to strike at Italy through the British police.

D'ANNUNZIO'S MESSAGE.

Mr. A. Beaumont, Special Correspondent of the Press Association and the Daily Telegraph, in a message dated Milan, Friday, say:—Gabrielle D'Annunzio has addressed the following to the Italian people, in the name of the Provisional Government, of Fiume:—Italians, Italian brothers, the spirit has overthrown arrogance and insult, and set the darkness aglow. The Italians of Garibaldi have listened to the lacerating shriek of Fiume, and are firm at Fiume and stout of heart. Our brothers of Fiume are not sheep for sale, nor is that holy city a city for bargaining. Who dare wrench asunder brothers from brothers? The world of to-day only has this pure craving, Italian passion, this Italian wish—Italian against all, and against every one. Remember that at Fiume the fire is kindled, and that two words alone make the speeches, "Oh, Italy! Oh, death!" From our Fiume, we stretch out our hands to you. Arise to your feet, and diffuse the faith throughout Italy. The defenders, as well as the oppressors, of Fiume have need of knowing and feeling what the Italy of victorious Venice is. Clench your teeth, clench your fists, have perfect harmony at the back of you. Do not fear reports designedly and iniquitously Austrian. Discount them. God is with us, and, because it is so, everything will turn out as it was pre-ordained, in solemn form. Have faith. Pray to the God of Italy. Pray in the churches, in the squares, at home. Every spot is a temple for Italian victory unmutilated, for the ancient and recent dead, for these brothers, sacred to Italy, and exultant to-day; for Fiume, her own sovereign! Help us, Italians, help us. One sole wish should unite us in one sole thought. The auditorium of our country to-day is Fiume. Our country's dignity to-day is in Fiume.

Telegraphing from Rome on Saturday, the Press Association's Correspondent says—The Popolo Romano announces that no volunteers have left Rome for Fiume, and from other towns there has only been one volunteer, an officer who formerly served under D'Annunzio. He left Venice with some soldiers who had abandoned their unit to return to Fiume, where they had been before, but they were obeying the orders, not of D'Annunzio, but of their officers, one of whom was a Colonel and the other a Major.

In a message dated Rome, Sunday, the Press Association's Correspondent reports that the Trieste Correspondent of the Corriere d' Italia states that a liner, formerly the Prinz von Hohenlohe, which was carrying five hundred volunteers for D'Annunzio's force at Fiume, has been stopped by an Italian destroyer.

It is announced from Malta that His Majesty's ships Ceres and Cardiff arrived there on Saturday morning from the Adriatic with British troops, which are believed to have been withdrawn from Fiume.

PRESIDENT WILSON AND IRELAND.

STATEMENT BY THE IRISH LEAGUE OF NATIONS SOCIETY.

When the first draft of the League of Nations Covenant was published, on the 14th of last February, the Irish League of Nations Society at once drew attention to Article XI., under which it was pointed out that subject peoples of the Allied Powers were, in effect, invited to "threaten to disturb international peace" as the only means of obtaining redress of existing or contingent grievances from the League of Nations.

Since then controversy, in America and elsewhere, has raged round Article X. and other provisions of the Covenant. Now, in response to a question about Ireland and the League, President Wilson has made the announcement:—"My position on the subject of self-determination for Ireland is expressed in Article XI. of the Covenant, in which I was particularly interested, because it seemed to be necessary for the peace and freedom of the world that a forum should be created, to which all peoples could bring any matter which is likely to affect the peace and freedom of the world."

This revelation of President Wilson's mind and deliberate intention is now regarded by the Irish Society as of hopeful augury, not alone for subject peoples everywhere, but for the whole conception of the League of Nations. It is, therefore, of vital importance, it says, not only to subject nationalities, but to all men of goodwill who desire that international law should take the place of national force, that President Wilson's interpretation shall be reduced to a definite formula, and that such a formula shall be ratified by the signatory States to the Covenant. The Irish Society recalls that forms of amendment were previously put forward by it, but were rejected by the English Union and the Irish Union as now engaged in again pressing its proposals.

SPANISH LINER SUNK.

FEARED LOSS OF 500 LIVES.

A Reuter's Keywest telegram of Saturday says—Divers have found the hulk of a vessel believed to be the Spanish liner Valbanera, which has been missing since the hurricane in the Gulf of Mexico ten days ago. The divers report that the name "Valbanera" is plainly discernible. The vessel lies in 40 feet of water. Nothing has been heard of the Valbanera since she appeared off Morro Castle, Havana, on September 9, and put to sea, endeavouring to ride out the storm. There is no trace of the passengers which were on board.

A Cadiz telegram says—It is stated here that the crew of the Valbanera numbered 88 officers and sailors. The vessel when it left Spanish waters had about 400 passengers on board. It is feared here that no one was saved.

THE IDEALS OF BROTHERHOOD.

At Birmingham last night Mr. Arthur Henderson declared that no re-organisation of industry would be satisfactory that did not broaden the basis of public ownership and control, taking out of private hands vital industries and services, and making workers partners deeply concerned in the success of the enterprises by which the nation lived. Brotherhood must get rid of national rivalries and racial enmities, and methods of secret diplomacy, which had built up a toppling structure of international alliances, buttressed by armaments. The brotherhood movement aimed at a real internationalism, at a society of nations pledged to maintain peace.

ORIGIN OF THE WAR.

AN AUSTRIAN VERSION.

THE EX-KAISER'S PART.

According to a Vienna telegram, says the Press Association's Copenhagen Correspondent, Dr. Roderick Gooss, on the authority of the Chief of the German-Austrian Foreign Office, has published an historical work, entitled "The Vienna Cabinet and the Origin of the World War," the material for which he obtained from official documents, and which gives an exact account of the attitude of the Austrian Cabinet from June 28th to August 1st, 1914—that is to say, from the Serajevo murder to Germany's declaration of war on Russia. The telegram says that the book establishes that the alleged Potsdam Crown Council of July 5th, 1914, was, in reality, a joint Austro-Hungarian Cabinet meeting in Vienna on July 7th, when all present, except Count Tisza, agreed that such far-reaching demands should be made to Serbia that their rejection was to be anticipated, and the way paved for a radical solution by means of military intervention. The publication further shows, the telegram claims, that the German Government had no knowledge of the text of the Austro-Hungarian Note to Serbia, or any share in its drafting, and that the Serbian reply was not communicated to Berlin. In transmitting Sir Edward Grey's mediation proposal of July 29th, the German Government instructed Herr von Tschirschky, the German Ambassador in Vienna, to say "The German Government must most urgently and emphatically commend to the Imperial and Royal Government's consideration the acceptance of England's mediation. Under the honourable conditions proposed, it would be uncommonly difficult for Austria-Hungary and Germany to bear responsibility for the consequences of rejection." The book terms it incomprehensible that the British proposal met with no acceptance, owing to the dilatory treatment by the Vienna Cabinet. Official documents show, the book says, that the joint Austrian and Hungarian Cabinet meeting on July 7th was resumed in the afternoon, when the Chief of the General Staff replied to the following questions by the War Minister:—First, whether it would be possible first to mobilise against Serbia, and only afterwards, if it became necessary, against Russia also. Secondly, whether the large forces could be retained in Transylvania to intimidate Rumania. Thirdly, where the struggle with Russia would be undertaken. The reply was secret, and was not included in the protocol. A long debate on the probable course of a European war followed, which, owing to its secret character, was not suitable for inclusion in the protocol. Count Tisza again requested those present carefully to examine their decision. On the announcement that Count Berchtold would go to Toche to report to the Emperor, Count Tisza requested the Chairman also to submit a report, which he (Count Tisza) would draft, on his view of the position.

THE KAISER'S ATTITUDE.

According to a telegram to the Tageblatt, an official publication, issued in Vienna, contains, inter alia, a report by the Austrian Ambassador, Count de Szoegyeni, on an audience he had with the ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, on July 5, when he handed him the Emperor Franz Josef's well-known letter. The Count therein says:—"After lunch, the Kaiser Wilhelm II. authorised me to tell the Emperor that in this case, too, we could reckon on Germany's support, and he had not the slightest doubt that von Bethmann Hollweg would entirely agree with his view. This particularly applied regarding an action on our part respecting Serbia. In the Kaiser Wilhelm's opinion, however, this action must not be any longer delayed. Russia's attitude would be hostile, but he, for years, had been prepared for this war, and should it even come to war between Austria and Russia, we could be convinced that Germany, with her customary loyalty to the Alliance, would stand at our side. He understood very well that in his well-known love of peace the Emperor Franz Josef would find it very hard to invade Serbia. If, however, we had recognised the real necessity of warlike action against Serbia, the Kaiser Wilhelm would regret it if we left unused the present moment, which was so favourable to us. As regards Rumania, the Kaiser would see to it that King Carol and his advisers behaved correctly. He was not in the least sympathetic towards entering into any treaty or relationship with Bulgaria, as he had not the slightest trust in Bulgaria, and said that any agreement with Bulgaria must contain no point directed against Rumania."

Another code telegram from the Ambassador to Count Berchtold says—"The Imperial Chancellor declared that he was authorised by His Imperial Lord to describe the attitude of the German Government to the autograph letter and memorandum, which was that whatever decision was made we could rely with certainty that Germany, as an Ally and friend of the Monarchy, was behind it. In the further course of conversation I ascertained that the Imperial Chancellor, just as Kaiser Wilhelm, regards immediate action on our part against Serbia as the most radical and best solution of our difficulties in the Balkans. From the international standpoint, he considers the present moment more favourable than later, and agrees that we shall inform neither Rumania nor Italy beforehand of our eventual action. On the other hand, Italy shall be immediately informed by the German Government, and by own Government of the intention to bring about the inclusion of Bulgaria in the Triple Alliance."

These telegrams were brought before the Vienna Cabinet on July 7, and led to Count Berchtold's declaration that Germany was completely and wholly behind the Austrian Government.

THE PRINCE IN THE ROCKIES.

ENGLISH REGIMENT'S WELCOME.

The Press Association's special correspondent, telegraphing from Revelstoke (B.C.), September 20, says:—Through the vertical cliffs of the gloomy Palliser Gorge the Royal train conveying the Prince of Wales this morning reached the lumbering village of Golden, upon the white foaming Columbia River, where the Rockies give place to the ice-crowned Selkirk Mountains. It is the gate of the apple-growing district of the Kootenay River. The Prince received a pleasant welcome from the stalwart farmers and lumbermen, including a number of returned soldiers, and also from some hundreds of school children. Amongst those who cheered him was a little group of white turbaned Sikh carpenters from far Jullundar (in the Punjab), who left work at the local sawmills.

The Royal train later reached the wayside station of Twinbutte, where the Middlesex Regiment, on its way from Siberia to England, was drawn up alongside. The troops gave His Royal Highness, who immediately alighted and inspected the men, hearty British cheers. The regiment seems to have seen service as far inland as Omsk, and is delighted to find itself homeward bound.

THE GOVERNMENT'S 48-HOUR BILL.

"ECONOMICALLY UNSOUND AND SUICIDE."

The Press Association has received a letter from Sir C. B. Hunter, of the well-known firm of Swan, Hunter, and Wigham Richardson, Limited, Wallsend-on-Tyne, in which he states: "With reference to American competition in shipbuilding and the present need of increased and less costly production if we are to hold our own: I am not pessimistic or optimistic, but only concerned with facts. America is now building much more rapidly and much more largely than we are. America has the advantage of cheaper coal and steel, and of labour more abundant and more free than ours. Wages are high, but output is not restricted.

Our capital is being rapidly conscripted, and at their present rate of waste it will not last many years. It is well known that we are spending too much and working too little. Yet shorter and still shorter hours of work, and higher and still higher wages (not only for the lower-paid, but for the highest paid workers) are being demanded. At this time our Government has chosen to introduce a bill to limit, under penalties, the increased production of wealth by depriving men who are now free and perfectly able and willing to protect themselves of their right to work more than forty-eight hours a week. Such a proposal would be at any time economically unsound and suicidal, and a gross infringement of individual liberty. There never was a time when it was less needed. There never will be a time when it could be so harmful as now.

A Melbourne telegram, dated Friday, states:—The House of Representatives to-day passed without division the bill for the ratification of the Peace Treaty with Germany, and an agreement by Great Britain and America to defend France in case of foreign aggression.

RUSHOLME BY-ELECTION.

THE ISSUES DEFINED.

FIVE CANDIDATES IN THE FIELD.

The Press Association says:—The fight in the Rusholme Division for the Parliamentary seat rendered vacant by the death of the Coalition Unionist, Mr. Stoker, will arouse interest far beyond the constituency itself. Locally a certain liveliness is apparent already. The electors up to this date have a choice of four candidates—Captain J. L. Thorpe (Unionist), Mr. N. M. R. Pringle (Liberal), Dr. R. Dunstan (Labour), and Captain R. B. Crewdson (Nationalist Party). A day or two will disclose whether others are to enter the lists. The reported decision of the Executive of the Labour Party, that Mr. Henderson and Mr. Clynes shall represent it in the campaign, is very freely discussed. An attempt made to obtain in Liberal quarters an expression of view of the situation as it exists at the moment elicited an expression of surprise and astonishment, and, it will be no exaggeration to say, of resentment, at the turn of affairs. The very recent case of Widnes was pointed to as an example of the generous support extended by the entire Liberal Party in that division to the Labour candidate in the person of Mr. Henderson himself.

At the last election Mr. R. B. Stoker (Coalition Unionist) polled 12,447 votes, and there were cast for Mr. W. Butterworth (Liberal) 3,699, Mrs. Pethick Lawrence (Labour) securing 2,983. The minority in which Liberal and Labour found itself was close upon 6,000. There are now on the roll 31,194, of whom 13,200 are women, and the electoral strength has risen by 773. Last December, of 6,000 Service men on the register about one-third voted. Since then soldier absentees have been materially reduced. The Manchester Liberal Week rally, which was given a start by Lord Haldane, synchronises with the Rusholme contest. At the initiatory meeting, wide circulation was granted to a document issued by the Manchester Liberal Federation and put out as the programme of the Liberal Party, adopted at the conference of representatives of the ten Parliamentary Divisions. Major Harry Barnes (Coalition Liberal), representing Newcastle East, appeared on Mr. Pringle's platform in the Houldsworth Hall and elsewhere. Both Mr. Pringle and Major Barnes are devoting some attention to the question of Nationalisation, and representatives of Labour are twitting the Liberal candidate with having a programme of his own which goes farther than what may be aptly described as the Manchester "authorised programme." Dr. Dunstan asserts that Mr. Pringle and his supporters are creating a new programme and a new party, but that in reality there are only two from which the electorate may make a choice—the people's party and the party of privileged power. Captain Thorpe pours scorn on all attempts "to resurrect the dead and buried political spirit of Mr. Asquith."

Brigadier-General Page Croft has come to the aid of the nominee of the National Party, Captain Crewdson. The Brigadier says that the party demands a national economic policy, which will give protection to all industries against unfair competition, according to the needs of each individual industry.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE AND IRELAND.

The address of the Liberal candidate will be in the hands of the electors of Rusholme Division to-day. Mr. Pringle, after an allusion to the lamented death of the late member, says: "The unions of the General Election are now dispelled. Its fraudulent promises have been exposed. After ten months, peace has not yet been made. Twenty-three wars are still going on. In several of these British blood is being shed and British treasure wasted. The ex-Kaiser and his accomplices remain untried. The promised indemnity has not materialised, and never will. Conscription, which was to cease, has been prolonged; extravagance has reigned on every hand; the daily expenditure is nearly double the daily revenue. Ireland is daily sinking deeper into anarchy, instead of witnessing the approach of the new Jerusalem. The country is on the straight road to bankruptcy." The address proceeds to deal with a variety of topics. The Liberal candidate declares that military rule in Ireland must cease. The establishment of self-government is essential to secure an Irish peace, to maintain friendly relations with America, and to preserve the good name of the Empire. This policy can only be promoted by strengthening the forces of independent criticism in the House of Commons.

At a private conference of the Women's Freedom League a decision was reached as to the possible candidature of Miss M. Neal, and it was reported that that lady will not go forward to nomination. The only indication of a contest observable yesterday was in a discharged soldiers' and sailors' meeting, called in support of the Labour candidate (Dr. Dunstan). The meeting was held under the auspices of the National Union of ex-Service Men, which is seeking to prove itself a fighting organisation in the by-election now proceeding.

Mr. Hutchinson, a resident of Rusholme, who is described on his bills as an organising accountant, announces himself as a candidate. He claims the suffrages of the electors on the ground that he stands for a reconstruction of industry by abolishing profiteering.

The writ is expected to-morrow.

BOLSHEVIST TERROR

AT RIGA AND POLTAVA.

In a message dated Stockholm, Friday, the Press Association's correspondent says:—Professor Guido Schneider, who has arrived here from Riga, and who had been a victim and an eye-witness of the Bolshevik terror in Riga, in a public lecture which he gave yesterday, disclosed many terrible details of the occupation. He said that within a short period 3,632 persons—men, women, and children—were shot in Riga. The victims were stripped of their clothes, and dragged out with bare feet into the snow-covered, blood-soaked prison yard. The Bolshevik executioners, intoxicated, and unable to aim, hit the legs and stomach of the unfortunate victims laughing at their agonies, which sometimes lasted a whole day and night. Young girls, elegantly dressed, volunteered as executioners, and, conquettishly promenading up and down with rifles, fired at the unfortunate prisoners.

Writing from Poltava on September 4th, the Press Association's correspondent says:—A Jewess named Rosa, between 22 and 25 years of age, whose surname was not known at Poltava, was the prosecutrix of the Chresvyclaika during the greater part of the Bolshevik occupation of Poltava. She herself shot in cold blood, with a revolver, no less than seven anti-Bolshevik and civilian prisoners. Eighty per cent. of the Chresvyclaika consisted of young Jews. I interviewed a Russian lady in whose flat was billeted the President of the Bolshevik Military Revolutionary Tribunal. He was a young Russian addicted to drugs, who indulged in cocaine orgies nightly with a companion. The Bolsheviks were always boasting among themselves of the sums which they had obtained by blackmail and by raids in the countryside. The peasants in the surrounding country were threatened with death or crushing taxation, as Counter-Revolutionaries, unless they denounced the landowners and demanded the passing of the death sentence on them. In the larger villages huge levies were made. One of them for instance, was mulcted to the extent of 70,000 roubles. Grain was confiscated wherever it was found. Peasant girls wishing to marry into another district were not allowed the customary dowries of cows and linen, inasmuch as, according to the Bolsheviks, these were common property. The Bolsheviks, on evacuating Poltava, threatened to shoot all males between 15 and 45 unless they accompanied them. There was no limit to the exactions of the Bolsheviks. The very oldest inhabitants, and even the sick, had to buy themselves from forced labour. Families of six and eight persons were either evicted from their homes altogether or were left with one or two rooms, while the others were occupied by the Communists and their womenkind. The most refined ladies and girls were arrested and imprisoned for weeks with the lowest class of criminals and prostitutes. Every kind of property was seized for the needs of the Red Army, including ladies' hats, dresses, and underclothing.

COAL SITUATION OF AUSTRIA.

An Exchange Paris telegram states:—The Supreme Allied Council on Friday examined the subject of the coal supply of Austria. A memorandum was read from M. Renner, in which he declared that the coal situation of Austria was desperate.

M. Loucheur stated that the whole of Europe was suffering from coal shortage, and the States adjoining Austria could not possibly supply a sufficient quantity of coal to the Government of Vienna.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

BRITISH CAPTURE ISLANDS.

IRISH TROOPS IN ACTION.

Writing from Stockholm on Saturday, the Press Association's Correspondent says:—According to a report from Sordavala to the Helsingin Sanomat, the English troops are displaying lively activity on Petrosavodsk front. They have, in the last few days, occupied the island of Ivanovski, in Lake Onega, 12 versts south-east of Petrosavodsk, and three other islets, from which it will be possible to impede sea traffic to Petrosavodsk. The British front now extends from Shriski, 16 versts north of Petrosavodsk, north-westward to Ivasko and Perajacori. It is understood that Irish troops are on the English left wing at Jalgubo. The British captured two gunboats and one other ship, with which they are now operating against Petrosavodsk.

AMERICA AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S TOUR.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF SIGNATORIES.

THE SHANTUNG QUESTION.

A San Diego (California) message of Friday says:—President Wilson to-day spoke to an audience of 50,000 people in the Stadium from a glass-enclosed platform, his words being carried to the distant edges of the Stadium by means of an electrical device. The members of the audience at a distance from the platform, however, were only able partly to hear, and before the President had finished many seats were empty.

The President reiterated that the objection that Great Britain would have a preponderance of votes in the Assembly of the League of Nations was untenable, and declared that it was a delusion to be frightened by it. The Assembly, he said, would be largely a debating body, and, as such, it was only fair to give membership to the British Colonies. It would be unfair to give votes to the small independent nations and exclude such great Dominions as Canada. Some who desired changes in the Treaty seemed to have as their object the upsetting of the theory of equality and putting the United States into a special position of privilege. To go into the League of Nations, said the President, without assuming equal responsibility would be a mockery. "I will not," he said, "join in claiming in the name of justice an unjust position for the country I love and cherish. Neither am I afraid of responsibility. Neither will I scuttle. I will not be a party to belittling America."

President Wilson quoted Senator Lodge's speech, in which the latter referred to the League to enforce peace. Senator Lodge said, among other things, "It will probably be impossible to stop all wars, but it will certainly be possible to stop some wars, and thus diminish their number. The way this should be worked out must be left to this League and to those who are giving this great question the study it deserves. The League, certainly, has the highest of ambitions for the benefit of humanity, and because that pathway is sown with difficulties there is no reason why we should turn from it." The President also quoted a statement of Mr. Roosevelt, who said, "The only possible way of obtaining peace, with a reasonable chance of its attaining its objective, is by agreement between the Great Powers, in which each should pledge itself, not only to abide by the decision of a common tribunal, but back with force a decision of the common tribunal. The great civilised nations of the world which do not possess force actually or potentially should combine by a solemn agreement in a great world League for peace and righteousness."

Those words were heartily applauded.

CHINA'S CLAIM TO SHANTUNG.

A Reuter's Los Angelos telegram of Sunday says—President Wilson yesterday evening concluded one week of his tour on the Pacific Coast by addressing a men's mass meeting, at which thousands shouted their approval of the ratification of the League of Nations Covenant. Referring to the objections that the League would involve the country in entangling alliances, President Wilson said that the League was a proposal for disentanglement, and added the day of alliances is behind us.

When the President expressed amazement that some men were opposing the League, there were many cries of "Shame on them," and applause greeted his statement that the Treaty was a people's Treaty, and not a stateman's Treaty.

Reviewing the history of German rights in Shantung, he said that when they acquired the status of international law as such, President McKinley and Mr. Hay did not even protest, they only asked that American trade rights should not be affected. Mr. Hay's open door policy did not mean an open door to the rights of China, but an open door to the goods of America. President Wilson added that Great Britain, Russia, and France had obtained similar rights without protests from the United States, and said that the Peace of Portsmouth, whereby Japan acquired Port Arthur was exactly similar as regards its Shantung provision to the present treaty. Each gave Japan rights in China which belonged to the defeated army. He said that Great Britain and France could not in honour violate the secret treaties with Japan, and the only way by which the case of Shantung could be bettered was to go to war against Great Britain, France, and Japan. The President then asked:—"Are these gentlemen who object to the Shantung settlement ready to fight Great Britain, France, and Japan to get this province back for China?" He continued—I know they are not. Their interest in China is not the interest of assisting China, but of defeating the Treaty. There is nothing which can more certainly put a drop of acid into every relationship we have in the world than if we now desert our former associates in the war, and America is no quitter. (Prolonged cheering followed these words.)

The President then repeated his statement that Great Britain could not have a preponderating vote in the League Assembly, and naming Canada Australia, and India, he asked—"Would you want to deprive millions of people of a voice in the debate?"

Shouts of "No" came from the crowd, which also applauded the words "America is no quitter."

SENATE AND BRITISH VOTES.

After the reading of the Covenant of the League of Nations in the Senate yesterday, says a Press Association war special telegram, dated Washington, Saturday, the Republican leaders claimed that they had a sufficient number of votes to pass, probably next week, an amendment giving the United States equal voting power with Great Britain in the Assembly of the League of Nations. It is not believed that this will necessitate the return of the pact to the Paris Conference, as President Wilson predicted.

MR. LANSING ON THE TREATY.

Mr. Lansing, in his first public utterance since Mr. Bullitt's statement before the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, declares that the Treaty of Peace should be ratified without delay and without change. He made no reference to Mr. Bullitt's "revelations."

ANTI-LEAGUE CAMPAIGN OPENED.

A Reuter's telegram from St. Paul on Saturday says—Senator Johnson, opening the Anti-League of Nations campaign here, made three forceful addresses, in the course of which he declared that the League was a gigantic trust, and would mean that the United States was at the mercy of European and Japanese diplomats, who would draw upon America's young manhood for their every dispute. It would also mean, he added, that we with our glorious past shall guarantee the territorial integrity of every country on the earth, and shall free from bondage every suffering people in anguish which is begging for freedom.

SWITZERLAND'S ATTITUDE.

A Press Association's special telegram, dated Berne, Saturday, says—The National Council to-day passed, by 98 votes to 58, a motion to adjourn the debate on the question of Switzerland's admission to the League of Nations until the situation has been completely cleared up, and the principal signatories to the Peace Treaty have joined the League.

THE EX-KAISER'S TRIAL.

The Libre Belgique (Brussels) says that the Dutch Minister in Paris has been notified that Holland within the next fortnight may be called upon to extradite the ex-Kaiser.

ENGLISH FOUNDRY WORKERS' STRIKE.

50,000 MEN CEASE WORK.

GRAVE SITUATION THREATENED.

Fifty thousand men in the English iron foundry trade ceased work on Saturday in the engineering circle. The outlook is considered grave, and if the strike extends over two or three weeks thousands of men engaged in the other sections of the engineering industry will be involved. At present 14,000 men in Lancashire are affected. Sheffield foundries closed at noon, and 2,400 men came out on strike. It is regarded as one of the most serious blows to industry Sheffield has had to face, because if castings are not procurable a general stoppage of engineering and allied industries must result, should the strike extend over a week or two. The wages there are £3 12s. 6d., plus 12½ per cent. bonus, making £4 1s. 6d., for a 47 hours week. Those who are complying with the provisions of the national wages agreement, whose wages will be dealt with at the October meeting of the court of arbitration, will be thrown out of employment.

Several hundred moulders ceased work at Barrow Shipyard. A prolonged strike would have a serious effect at Barrow, where there is already considerable unemployment. The serious situation now existing in the Royal Dockyards, so far as the workers are concerned, will be accentuated to-day, when the iron-moulders come out on strike in company with the foundry men all over the country. Many of the men in the dockyards were anxious to ignore the strike owing to the reductions proceeding at those establishments, but the union refused their sanction.

OTHER CENTRES.

Four hundred ironfounders and core-makers have ceased work in Wolverhampton and district, the majority of the workers belonging to the borough. Between 400 and 500 moulders in the Lincoln engineering concerns ceased work in support of the national demand for an increase of wages. At one of the principal works, it is stated, supplies of castings are sufficient to last for another fortnight only.

A large number of men struck work on the North-East coast. One thousand five hundred moulders and core-makers ceased work at noon in the Middlesbrough district. At Stamford the moulders' strike is affecting 500 employés. Locally it is thought that the strike will be of short duration.

SERIOUS EFFECTS IN LEEDS.

About eleven hundred iron moulders and core makers in Leeds have ceased work, and it is said that if the dispute is not settled within a fortnight thousands of engineers and allied workers will be thrown out of employment. In Leeds alone nearly forty-thousand workers will be idle if a settlement is not speedily arrived at.

It is reported that two Birmingham firms, not associated with the Employers' Federation, have offered to pay their iron founders the full fifteen shillings demanded, but that the men's Society declined to allow their members to accept the offer until the dispute is settled.

Between three hundred and four hundred moulders ceased work in the Humber district, which comprises Hull, Grimsby, and Goole. The employers state that unless the strike is speedily settled the whole of the Federated engineering shops will be brought to a standstill.

CHINESE SITUATION.

The peace negotiations between North and South threaten, says a Press Association message dated Shanghai, Thursday, to break down on the very eve of their reopening. The atmosphere in Shanghai is electrical. Wang I Yang, chief delegate of the Northerns, has arrived from Peking at Nanking, where he is waiting for an opportune moment to enter Shanghai. The Southerners utterly decline to meet Wang, and threaten to leave Shanghai the day he sets foot there. Shanghai is already full of Wang's followers. Wang is reported to have at his disposal two million dollars to spend in entertaining. The Northerners assert that Wang will make far-reaching concessions which would satisfy the Southern delegates, if only the latter come to the conference table. Lung-hsyo, chief representative of the Constitutionalists, in an interview with the North China Daily News, stipulated that Peking must publish all agreements with Japan, as well as a full statement of China's debts to Japan, as an indispensable preliminary to a conference.

INDUSTRIAL ARMISTICE URGED.

Mr. Palmer, Attorney-General, in a speech at Freeport, Pennsylvania, says a New York telegram, urged an absolute industrial armistice for six months, declaring that this would permit a solemn solution of economic and other problems arising out of the war.

The number of employers in the steel corporation and subsidiary industries affected by the proposed nation-wide strike in the steel industry in the United States is estimated at 600,000 in addition to which there are 1,000 independent plants, some of which are reported to be already making terms with the trade unionists.

A Reuter's telegram from Cleveland, Ohio, says that the United Mine Workers of America, by a large vote, have declared themselves in favour of the nationalisation of the coal mines of the country. The nationalisation of the coal mines of Canada will also be proposed.

THE REVOLUTION IN MONTENEGRO.

A Belgrade telegram, dated Thursday, states:—A semi-official statement issued characterises as false all the statements regarding the so-called revolution in Montenegro, which, it is stated, are issued by the entourage of ex-King Nicholas. The only trouble is caused by bands of bandits, who, while subsidised by the ex-King's friends for their own purposes, carry out pillaging raids in the mountainous districts of Cattaro. It is pointed out that there are less than twenty Serbian officials in the whole of Montenegro, all the remainder, and nearly half the troops in the country, being Montenegrins. Further, the Montenegrin people, numbering 350,000, could themselves terminate the present system if they desired.

FRENCH MUSICAL COMPOSERS AND DRAMATIC ARTISTS.

An Exchange Paris telegram states:—The Committee of Musical Composers and Dramatic Artists having refused to insert in their contracts with theatrical managers clauses regarding an undertaking not to employ artists who are not trade unionists, it is feared that a strike movement will be started among the federated artists, which may result in closing the theatres.

MILK PRODUCTION IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN DAIRYMEN'S EVIDENCE.

The Departmental Committee appointed to inquire into the decline of dairying in Ireland resumed its sittings on Saturday at the offices of the Department of Agriculture, Upper Merrion street, Dublin. Mr. Bertram H. Barton, Chairman, presided. The other members present were—Messrs. Harold Barbour, R. A. Anderson, and Thos. Duggan. Mr. J. A. Hanna, Secretary, was in attendance.

Mr. A. Poole Wilson, Chief Dairying Inspector, Department of Agriculture, was examined, and stated that there was a steady decline in the number of milch cows since 1914, but it was not of startling dimensions. In 1915 the number was 1,509,723, in 1916 the number was 1,506,435, in 1917 it was 1,504,923, and last year 1,481,421. There was also a decline in the number of heifers in calf, which reached the lowest record in 1918, numbering only 75,548. The broad fact was that the exports of dairy cattle had increased. It was when they came to the export of Irish dairy produce that they were face to face with very interesting facts. In butter alone there was a decrease from 816,000 cwts. in 1914 to 456,000 cwts. in 1918. There was a steady decrease in the export of milch cows, stores, and springers. This year there had been an enormous increase in the number of fat cows exported. Owing to the import of bacon being stopped there had been a great consumption of butter. They could not get a return of the quantity of butter used for home consumption. As to the falling off in some creameries he thought that a number of farmers left the creameries and sold their butter privately. As to the export of cheese there had been a steady increase in 1915, 1916, and 1917, and an enormous increase last year. The Ministry of Food had told them that they wanted cheese, not butter, because they were arranging for an unlimited supply of margarine. In the early days of the war they were not sympathetic as regards the prices offered for Irish butter, and farmers turned to cheese production. The quantity of condensed milk was also increased. The broad fact was that there had been a reduction of practically 50 per cent. in Irish exports of dairy produce. As against that there was the amount of Danish butter formerly imported by Dublin and Belfast during the winter, which had been cut off.

Mr. J. A. Hatch, Secretary of the Dublin Cowkeepers' and Dairymen's Association, in the course of his evidence, said that the tendency shown by those having land of their own was to follow tillage instead of milk production. Milk production would require larger returns than any other form of agricultural work, as it entailed a lot of labour and involved a seven-day week, whereas in other occupations there was a five and a half day week. The present wage was 56s. a week, and the pre-war wage was £1. The distributors were paid 45s. a week without commission. Their pre-war wage had been from 14s. to £1. The Association was not carried on for trade purposes, each member carrying on his business separately. It was their experience that the working classes were buying more milk than previously. There had been a decline in production of 25 per cent. To his knowledge 25 or 30 dairy farmers with herds ranging from 30 to 150 cows had gone out of business in Co. Dublin within the past eighteen months, and others were going out. The Department, or some other authority, should take a bold policy, and educate the people to the value of milk as a food, and pay better prices in order to induce supply. The prices of feeding stuffs were a determining factor in the price of milk. Hay was now £13 to £14, as compared with the pre-war price of £4 a ton. Root crops were 16s. a ton pre-war, and 45s. a ton last winter. In pre-war days the prices of milk were—summer 3d. a quart and winter 4d. At present the price was 9d., and the Department had fixed the price in the coming winter at 10d. a quart. From December last until May the price was 7d. Land in pre-war days was rented at from £5 to £6 an Irish acre, it now cost from about £12 to £18, and individual cases considerably more. This was to some extent due to competition between dairymen, but there was more competition between people taking grazing land.

Mr. Anderson asked if the increase in price was the only remedy.

Witness said that so long as there were alternative occupations which gave a better return than milk he could not see how they could alter that state of affairs unless dairying was made more prosperous.

Mr. Anderson next asked if in the interests of his own Society he would reconsider his answer that a rise in price was the only remedy, for if his statement went to the public like that, then the Association was barren of any suggestion that might be of use to the Committee.

Witness said that they came before the Committee as they thought they were entitled to representation on the Committee, and because it was quite obvious from evidence given the previous day that their interests were very likely to be assailed.

The Chairman pointed out that as far as representation on the Committee was concerned they had nothing to say.

Replying to further questions, witness said that the average yield of a cow was two gallons a day. The pre-war cost of delivery was 4d. a gallon, it was now between 8d. and 9d. His Association considered that the opposition raised by some sections of the Press to the increased price of milk had a most harmful effect as it drove a great many producers out of business. An enormous number of cows were fattened off and sold for beef, which was paying well. In that way a section of the Press did a great public disservice. Some journals went so far as to abuse their contemporaries for not attacking the producers, while others offered free advertisements to producers who would sell at prices substantially lower than those fixed by the trade. The Association could not depend on its views being published, and had to publish them in the form of advertisements. Some journals were, however, disposed to be cautious. The Press generally prejudged the case as against the producers. Witness further mentioned that at present uncleanly produced milk commanded the same price as that produced with great care. Referring to the evidence given the previous day by Mr. Sheehan, witness said that a comparison had been made between Plymouth and Dublin, whereas, as a matter of fact, while the price of milk was somewhat cheaper in Plymouth than in Dublin, the public had a totally different service. In Plymouth the people got pasteurised milk delivered once a day by a co-operative society, whereas in Dublin the public was supplied with fresh unpasteurised milk twice a day.

The Chairman explained that there was no intention on the part of the Committee to draw a contrast with Dublin where the conditions were different. Mr. Sheehan had mentioned that the milk was pasteurised.

Witness stated that in the report of the English Milk Commission the public was recommended not to use pasteurised in preference to fresh milk. The pre-war cost of a milch cow was £18. It was now £55.

Mr. Duggan asked witness whether he could explain the reason why hay was £14 a ton in Dublin, while in other parts of the country it was only £6.

Witness said that he could scarcely believe that to be a fact.

Mr. Duggan mentioned that he saw the best rye grass bought by a presser for export at £6 a ton. He was astonished recently when he was told by a Dublin dairyman the price of hay in the city.

Mr. Anderson suggested to witness the advisability of endeavouring to obtain hay from the country.

Mr. W. Clarke, a member of the Dublin Cowkeepers' Association, explained that ten years ago a cow costing £18 would give five gallons of milk per day. The same type of cow would now cost £55, and one would be lucky to get three gallons from her. A steady deterioration in yield was going on for the past ten years, and in his opinion it was due to the introduction of Scottish Shorthorn bulls. The production of milk had fallen off pro rata with the improvement of beef. He suggested that the Department should send to Cumberland and introduce some real milking types of Shorthorn bulls. At his present output, witness stated that it would take 1s. a quart to pay him in winter, and 9d. a quart in summer. There had been a falling off in milk production in winter since the war. As regards milk sent to Dublin from the country he said that it frequently got sour in transit, and sometimes it could be dug out of the can with a spade.

The inquiry was subsequently adjourned, some members of the Cowkeepers' Association intimating that they would attend at a later stage to tender further evidence.

PORTOBELLO GARRISON CHURCH.

DEDICATION OF ALTAR TO FALLEN MEMBERS.

At the 11.30 o'clock Service in the Portobello Garrison Church yesterday morning, a handsomely-carved super-altar, with appropriate inscription, was unveiled and dedicated in memory of a number of members of the church choir who paid the supreme sacrifice in the great war. There was a very large congregation present, including a good proportion of the troops stationed at Portobello Barracks, as well as relatives of the deceased soldiers. The inscription on the brass plate on the altar is as follows—"To the Glory of God and with grateful memory of Second Lieutenant Reuben Harrison Howell, 1st Battalion Royal Dublin Fusiliers; Sergeant William M'Donald, 2nd Battalion K.O. Yorkshire Light Infantry; Sergeant George Frederick Batwell, 2nd Battalion Royal Dublin Fusiliers, and the other members of the choir of this Garrison Church who laid down their lives in the great war, 1914-1918. 'I will sing a new song unto Thee, O God,' Psalm cxliv., 9."

The first portion of the Service, which consisted of Morning Prayer, was conducted by Rev. J. O'Callaghan, B.D., T.C.F., and the Lesson was read by Rev. D. P. Winnifrith, O.B.E., M.A., Chaplain in charge of the Garrison Church. The hymns sung were—No. 420, "Dear Lord, on this Thy Servant's Day," and No. 439, "The Son of God goes forth to war."

Following the unveiling and dedication of the altar, Rev. Mr. Winnifrith addressed the congregation, taking as his text—"And he left all, rose up, and followed him," Luke v., 28. The preacher told how St. Mathew when asked by Our Lord to follow Him at once did so, thus abandoning all worldly prospects, and expressing a readiness even, as it came to pass in his case, to lay down his life in the cause of the Lord Jesus Christ and the extension of His Kingdom. Thousands more, he proceeded, had during the great war just ended laid down their lives, and were now numbered with the saints. They heard the call to serve their country, to fight for their homes, to fight for many oppressed in other lands, and to fight for the Christlike ideals of chivalry, justice, honour, and truth. They, too, displayed the saintly qualities of self-denial. A readiness to give up everything, to endure hardship, and to give even of their best in a great cause. They lost their earthly lives, but they had entered into a more joyous and fuller life, where they awaited them to share with them their final triumph on the last and brightest Easter morn. That day they had placed in that garrison chapel a memorial to three young men, who had laid down their lives. He knew them all well. They were members of the Sunday evening voluntary choir in the Garrison Chapel. Sergeant M'Donald was serving in the band of the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry at the time the war broke out. He heard the call. He was a regular communicant there, and used the talent which God had given him in the service of His Church and to the Glory of God. He was by Sergeant M'Donald's side on the field a few moments after he was shot. He was with him when he died, and as he and some of his comrades stood around his grave they sang that glorious hymn which teaches of the hope of the Resurrection, and which he promised his widowed mother they too would sing at that Service: "On the Resurrection Morn." The other two, Lieutenant Howell and Sergeant Batwell, he remembered as boys. They were not too young to hear the call of service. They too were members of their choir, and gave of their talents in voice and song in the service of God's sanctuary. So, too, they eagerly responded to the call of mother country. They might, like so many other young men in this country, to their everlasting shame be it said, have stayed at home and allowed others to fight for them, but they were moved by patriotism and that spirit of Christ which said: "Don't think of yourself, think of others," and they went forth. They paid the great penalty for their patriotism. They made the great sacrifice—they laid down their lives, and they were intensely proud of their memory. They placed that super-altar there as a tribute of their gratitude for their services voluntarily given in that church, and for the great sacrifice they made for them. Those dear lads gave up of their best, and laid down their lives for them, unworthy though they were of the great sacrifice, so that they might live and be free. He hoped that every time they worshipped there those lads, as well as the thousands of comrades who made the great sacrifice, would be remembered before God. Their comrades would never cease to mourn their loss, but they should not be sorrowing as men without hope. They were not lost, but merely gone before.

During the Offertory the hymn, No. 499, "On the Resurrection Morn," was sung, and the Service concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

DERRY BOMB-THROWING.

INVESTIGATION AT COURTMARTIAL.

The district courtmartial opened in Derry on Friday for the purpose of inquiring into the bomb-throwing in Strabane Old road, Waterside, Derry, on the night of the 15th August was resumed on Saturday before Lieut.-Colonel F. A. Scott, Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry (President); Captain A. S. Fraser, Dorset Regiment; and Captain H. D. Thwaytes, D.S.O., Dorset Regiment. Hugh Kelly, carter, Strabane Old road, was charged with having in his possession a live bomb, a shot gun, a pistol, and sporting and rifle cartridges.

Captain C. Foncar, M.C., London Regiment, conducted the prosecution, and Mr. Charles McCormick, solicitor, defended.

John Moore, Strabane Old road, said that on the night of the 15th August he was in bed about 10 o'clock, when he heard a great explosion, which shook the house. Some young lads came along the street and inquired who fired the shot. Hugh Kelly came out of his house in his shirt and trousers, and told the lads to go away or he would blow their heads off. Kelly's sister came out and said—"That's right, Hughie; give them plenty of those things. That's the stuff to give them." Mrs. McNaught said that she saw Kelly throw the first bomb.

Mr. McCormick said that witness's evidence was different from what it was at the preliminary inquiry.

Mrs. Margaret Moore, wife, and Mrs. Frances Milloy and Miss Agnes Moore, daughters of the first witness, gave corroborative evidence.

Constable Dolan said that in a police search of the accused's house he found four sporting cartridges, a bolt-action gun, and a revolver.

Constable Twiss said that he found one round of military ammunition, two rounds of sporting ammunition, and an ounce of shot in accused's house. The sporting ammunition consisted of two cartridges which had been refilled.

Mrs. Cissie Kelly, sister-in-law of the accused, said that she was speaking to Hugh Kelly at the time of the first explosion.

A fourteen-year-old boy named James McKeever said that he was playing with some boys near Hugh Kelly's house. They heard an explosion. They saw Hugh Kelly coming from his own house. He asked them who fired the shot, and they said that they did not know. Hugh Kelly then told them to go home like good boys.

Mrs. McNaught said that Hugh Kelly did not say if he had half a dozen more he would put them all the same road.

Sergeant Bennett, R.I.C., said accused was a steady workingman who had never been in any trouble before.

Agnes Moore, recalled, said that Mrs. Cissie Kelly was not talking to the accused at the time the first explosion took place.

Accused, in a statement to the court, said that he was talking to Cissie Kelly at the time of the first explosion. He was in the house when the second explosion occurred. His wife took weak and he had to attend to her. The arms were bought 25 years ago, and the revolver was hung up as an ornament. It was six years since he bought any cartridges, and some of the were refilled.

The finding of the court will be promulgated.

TAR AND FEATHERS CASE.

The result of the courtmartial was announced on Saturday. Lieutenant F. Wright has been found guilty, and the Court decided that he be reprimanded. The case was heard at Cambridge on the 10th inst., and Lieutenant Wright was placed on parole last Sunday pending the decision of the courtmartial.

THE ROYAL IRISH CONSTABULARY PENSIONERS

The General Secretary of the Royal Irish Constabulary Pensioners' Association, who is a member of the Executive Committee of the Retired Civil Servants' Federation, writes to us to say that he is going to London immediately with the object of having the claims of Constabulary pensioners for increased pensions brought under the notice of Parliament. He states that the present pensions are insufficient to sustain nature, and that instances are on record where the deaths of pensioners, who have died in workhouses, have been medically certified as attributable to want of proper nourishment. He adds that the Dublin Metropolitan Police pensioners are in full accord with the Royal Irish Constabulary pensioners.

IRISH CATTLE TRADERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE PRICE OF IRISH HIDES.

MILITARY MEAT SUPPLIES.

A special meeting of the Irish Cattle Traders' and Stockowners' Association was held in Dublin, the Chairman, Mr. P. J. Kennedy, J.P., presiding.

PRICE OF HIDES.

The North of Ireland Cattle Traders' and Stockowners' Association called attention in a letter to the harsh and unjust treatment accorded to persons interested in the live stock industry in Ireland by the low prices of hides and the restrictions on their disposal.

The Chairman proposed, and Mr. Lennon seconded, the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted, and copies of it were directed to be forwarded to the Vice-President of the Department of Agriculture, Mr. Joseph Devlin, M.P., and the Ministry of Food:—

> That our Secretary represent to the Director of Raw Materials, London, that it has been brought to the notice of our Association that the price for Irish-fed hides is controlled at from 8½d. to 10d. per lb., while American hides are allowed a free market, and reach 1/6 per lb., while the pre-war price of home hides was 13½d. per lb., and that we consider this an unwarranted interference with our live stock trade, the expense of which have been largely increased by the incidence of war legislation and departmental interference with our working conditions.

"SHRINKAGE" IN TRANSIT.

The action of the Ministry of Food in refusing to making any allowance for the shrinkage of weight in cattle shipped from Irish ports to Birkenhead and other centres was discussed. The attitude on this subject of the Minister responsible to Parliament was regarded as unsatisfactory. His refusal to make allowance for shrinkage, it was stated, was based on the ground that the loss in respect of cattle transferred from Ireland was likely to be less than that in cattle removed by rail in England, overlooking the fact that while Great Britain abounded in distributing centres quite close to the point of entraining, there were no distributing centres near the Irish Sea once cattle left the Irish ports.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Lennon, a resolution was passed, thanking Mr. Devlin, M.P., for his action in connection with this grievance.

MEAT FOR THE TROOPS.

Attention was called by a member to the intention of the War Department to supply the troops on six days of the week with frozen meat and on one day with fresh home-killed meat, commencing as from January 1 next. This was described as another attempt to sacrifice Irish trade to the exigencies of the Government's desire to foster American friendship.

Mr. Field proposed:—

> That we learn with surprise of the expressed desire of the military authorities to restrict the supply of home-killed meat to the troops stationed in Ireland from January 1st next to one day a week, and that their rations for the other six are to be drawn from frozen meat supplies. In view of the exhortations addressed by the Government to the farming population to increase home supplies, we cannot regard this new proposal otherwise than as a breach of faith on the part of those at whose instance we increased our flocks and herds.

The Chairman seconded the resolution, which was unanimously carried, and copies were ordered to be sent to the military commander in Ireland, the Lord Lieutenant, the Secretary of State for War, every County Council in Ireland, and to the friends of the trade in Parliament.

BIRKENHEAD CATTLE SHIPMENTS.

The Secretary of the Department of Agriculture wrote pointing out that the Ministry of Food had modified their recent Order in respect of the number of cattle to be shipped from Irish centres to Birkenhead. The number to be allowed to the end of September had been incrased to 5,305 instead of 3,700 originally fixed. While the Ministry were not prepared to give way on the question of limiting shipments to Birkenhead, they had agreed that steps should be taken to ensure that no injustice was done to those whose cattle could not be slaughtered at the port of debarkation.

The Chairman moved that the meeting express its thanks to the Secretary of the Department for his letter, the contents of which were noted, and pointing out "that we appreciate the extension of the number of cattle allowed at Birkenhead as far as it goes, but would much prefer a permanent system of free trade, without which stability cannot be restored in our business. At the same time we should be glad to know what are the 'steps' to ensure that no injustice will be done to those whose cattle cannot be slaughtered at the port of debarkation referred to in the last paragraph of the Department's communication."

Mr. Lennon seconded the motion, which was passed, the observation being made that so far as Irish interests were concerned they had been too frequently put off with vague promises which had too seldom materialised.

IRISH MENTIONS FOR WAR SERVICE.

The names of the following medical and dental officers of the Irish Command have been brought to the notice of the Secretary of State for War for valuable services rendered in connection with the war:—

Lieutenant-Colonels J. B. Buchanan, M.C., Reserve of Officers, R.A.M.C.; G. J. Coates, R.A.M.C.; H. C. Donald, T.D., and H. Jones, R.A.M.C. (T.F.); J. P. J. Murphy, A. de C. Scanlan, C.M.G., and B. W. Somerville-Large, R.A.M.C.; Surgeon-Major G. W. Trouton, West Kent Yeomanry (T.F.); Major E. T. Vint, R.A.M.C. (T.F.); Temporary Majors R. D'A. Irvine, R.A.M.C.; A. K. Macdonald, Special List, attached R.A.M.C.

Temporary Captain (acting Lieutenant-Colonel) J. D. O'D. Egan, R.A.M.C.; Temporary Captains (acting Majors) W. Law and D. Murphy, R.A.M.C.; Captain O. H. Blacklay, R.A.M.C. (T.F.); Temporary Captains I. A. Davidson and B. Ferrar, R.A.M.C.; A. F. A. Howe, Special List, attached R.A.M.C.; R. B. Hunt, T. Kirkood, H. S. Laird, N. C. Patrick, C. B. Pearson, R. H. Scovell, and H. R. Wright, R.A.M.C.

IRISH SUPERANNUATED EMPLOYES' ASSOCIATION.

At a large public meeting of the Irish Superannuated Employés' Association, held in the City Hall, Mr. O'Neill in the chair, the following resolutions were adopted:—

"That the best thanks of the Association be accorded the Dublin Municipal Council for calling upon the Local Government Board to take immediate steps to provide for the representative public bodies of Ireland the requisite statutory authority to increase the pensions of their superannuated employés, as such pensions are now wholly insufficient in the great majority of cases to meet the greatly increased cost of living."

"That we urge upon the other municipal and Poor Law authorities in Ireland to follow the excellent lead of the Dublin Corporation, and press upon the Local Government Board the extreme necessity of dealing with the matter at the opening of the next Session of Parliament; and, further, we call upon the pensioners throughout the country, and especially in cities and towns, to use their influence—jointly, when possible, but in all districts individually—with local councils to press for an early settlement of the just claims of ex-civic servants. We also call upon them to join the Association and extend its scope."

The thanks of the Association were voted to the Dublin Press for the publication of reports, and, in this connection, the hope was expressed that the provincial Press would be good enough to give its great help.

THE IVEAGH TRUST BUILDINGS.

On Saturday last the employés of the Iveagh Trust Buildings, Bride street, Dublin, who remained after the other workers left, received a week's notice of the termination of their agreements. This is taken to be a preliminary to the final closing of the institution, which hitherto provided accommodation for upwards of 500 people.

BOY BOTTLE WORKERS.

A further conference has been arranged to be held to-day regarding the strike of boys employed at the Ringsend Bottle Works. The demand which gave rise to the dispute arose on a question of wages.

THE NUGGET POLISHES.

The notable exception to the general rule of soaring prices is provided by the "Nugget" Polishes, which were not advanced in price until three years of war, and the greatly enhanced cost of raw materials had rendered the step essential. Within six months of the signing of the armistice the proprietors—always pioneers—reduced their prices again, so that their popular black and brown polishes are once more available, and at an expenditure within the compass of all.

A telegram from Corpus Christi (Texas) states that ninety more bodies have been discovered on the shore at Nueces Bay. This brings the deaths caused by the floods up to nearly four hundred, and it is feared double that number of persons have perished.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION AND LOCAL ELECTIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—I am directed by the Local Government Board for Ireland to request that you will be so good as to insert in Monday's issue of the Irish Times the accompanying copy of a letter sent by the Board to Lord Monteagle in regard to his letter on the subject of proportional representation appearing in to-day's Irish Times.—Yours, etc.,

J. E. Devlin, Assistant-Secretary.
Local Government Board,
Dublin, September 20th, 1919.

(COPY.)
Local Government Board,
Dublin, 20th September, 1919.

My Lord,—The attention of the Local Government Board for Ireland has been called to your letter in to-day's Irish Times, which purports to give the public a statement of the attitude of the Board in regard to the instructional propaganda in connection with proportional representation.

It is observed that, while you quote, in support of your allegation, a paragraph of the Board's letter stating that an election campaign to explain proportional representation to the people of Ireland would, in the Board's opinion, fall more appropriately within the scope of the activities of your Society, you have not quoted the previous paragraph of that letter, which points out that the Board's primary obligation is to afford instruction to returning officers and other officials charged with the conduct of the elections, and to advise and assist them in any difficulties which may arise—a work which would probably fully occupy the Board's time up to the date of the elections.

The Board are at a loss to understand why this material paragraph should have been omitted, as the sentence quoted without its context in your lordship's letter gives a totally misleading conception of the Board's attitude. I am to add that the Board are forwarding a copy of this letter to the editor of the Irish Times.—I am, my lord, your obedient servant,

J. E. Devlin, Assistant-Secretary.
The Right. Hon. the Lord Monteagle, K.P.,
Mount Trenchard, Foynes,
Co. Limerick.

THE DECLINE OF DAIRYING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—I was very pleased to see a letter in your issue of the 19th from Mr. W. O'Brien, Secretary of the Irish Labour Party and Trades Union Congress, with reference to the above. As soon as I saw the announcement made on Thursday by the Department of Agriculture, my suspicions were at once aroused. We are all most anxious to see the dairying industry in this country flourishing, but to advance the price of butter or cheese now or in the near future, when the season is practically over, would not help production. Butter at present prices leaves a big margin of profit to the farmer, and cheese-making gives him a still larger profit. If the prices are advanced, the only people who stand to gain are the merchants who are carrying enormous stocks in cold store. In many districts, to my own knowledge, buyers are paying at present many shillings per cwt. more for butter than they can get for it, either from the Ministry of Food in England or the Irish retailer.

I am strongly of the opinion that it is the speculators who are trying to work up the Department of Agriculture to grant an increased price to enable them to clear out of their stocks at a good profit. In July last an advance of 30s. per cwt. was sanctioned by the Ministry of Food in England, and the result of this was that hundreds of tons of butter that had been bought at low prices, and held in cold store, were put on the market at an exorbitant profit to the merchant.

It is not the prices for dairy produce that check the growth of the industry, but the labour question. Profits from dairying were never so satisfactory as at present. My calling takes me among the farmers in many parts of the country, and their one complaint is the difficulty they have in getting the cows milked, especially on Sundays—the day on which most political meetings, football and hurling matches, etc., are held.

Whatever the outcome of the conferences may be, I sincerely hope the result will not be an increase in the price of cheese or butter. Never before at this time of the year, or probably at any other time, were stocks of the latter as heavy as they are at present in this country. I am informed that the cold stores are full to the very doors.—Yours, etc.,

"Wholesaler."

IRISH LABOUR TROUBLES.

COUNTY DUBLIN AERODROME WORKERS' BONUS.

The award was issued in London on Saturday morning of a claim heard before a Court of Arbitration for the payment of 12½ per cent. war bonus on earnings at Baldonnell Aerodrome, Co. Dublin. The parties to the claim were the Air Ministry and the Electrical Trades Union.

At the hearing a letter was read from the Superintendent Engineer, Headquarters, Aviation Services, Dublin, to the Secretary of the Carpenters' Society, agreeing to the payment of the Dublin City rate, whatever it might be, as arranged between the employers and the trades unions, and also to the payment of 12½ per cent. bonus upon hourly earnings. The men concerned received the bonus of 12½ per cent. until 13th May, when payment of it was stopped by order of the Air Ministry. The award of the Court is that men of the age of 21 and over shall continue to receive the bonus of 12½ per cent from 14th May.

Other claims have been heard for payment of the same bonus to operatives in the building trade at all aerodromes in the Dublin district, the parties concerned being the Air Ministry, the Amalgamated Society and General Union of Carpenters and Joiners, and the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union. In this case also the bonus was paid until 13th May when it was stopped by the Air Ministry. By an award issued in London on Saturday morning the Court decided that the 12½ per cent. shall be paid from May 14th.

RATHFARNHAM PAPER MILLS CLOSED DOWN.

Our advertising columns contain a notice of the closing down of the Newbrook Paper Mills, Rathfarnham, by delegates of the Irish Transport Union without notice, and in the absence of any dispute concerning wages between the firm of S. Irwin and Son and the staff of same.

The proprietor, Sir John Irwin, informs us that, subsequent to his giving an all-round increase of wages as from the 1st August last, to the young girls who sort the waste paper in his Abbey street works, a demand was made upon him by the Women Workers' Union to reinstate certain girls whom the firm had dismissed on the ground of their unwillingness or inability to produce a sufficient output of sorted paper to warrant the higher rate of wages granted. When Sir John Irwin refused to comply with this demand a strike of the girls was called by the Union a couple of weeks ago, and all but sixteen girls ceased work. Since then the Abbey street premises have been picketed, and that branch of the business closed down. Over one hundred persons are involved in the closing of the paper mills and Abbey street works.

When Sir John Irwin acquired the Newbrook Mills (over twenty years ago) it had been lying derelict for many years. Only one small mill in Ireland at that time was making wrapping paper, and it was demolished by the storm of February, 1903. When Newbrook Mill was shut down on Saturday last orders were in hands for Belfast, Cork, Limerick, Waterford, Galway, as well as Dublin, all of which will probably be transferred to English mills.

STRIKE OF GALWAY CARPENTERS.

The carpenters of Galway "downed tools" on Saturday morning. The local firms affected are:—McDonogh and Sons joinery works, J. Stewart, Salthill; Timothy Emerson, MacNally and Co., Frank Lydon, Robert MacDonnell, Walter O'Flaherty, and the Galway Urban Council, which is acting as paymaster for the Government under the reconstruction scheme in connection with the erection of a hangar for the building of motor fishing boats at the docks. Carpenters were paid at the rate of 1s. 2d. per hour, or £2 19s. 6d. for a fifty-one hour week. They demanded 1s. 8d. per hour, or £4 5s. per week. After conference and consultation with other employers in different provincial town, the employers offered 1s. 4d. per hour, or £3 8s. per week. The men also demanded 3s. per day subsistence allowance when working out of town, and the employers agreed to offer 2s. The men rejected the offer, and the strike ensued.

PICKETS AT BIRR MARKETS.

Carrig strikers were present at the Birr markets on Saturday to prevent famers in the affected area from disposing of their produce. One farmer brought in a consignment of eggs to a local shopkeeper, but the strike pickets interfered, and followed the farmer through the town. Police and military are actively engaged patrolling the entire Carrig area.

NOTES AT PHOENIX PARK RACES.

Though there was more than a promise of frost in the air, and the varying tints of the foliage of the trees in Phoenix Park proclaimed all too plainly that the autumn was advancing with rapid strides, no more delightful weather could have been provided for racing than that of last Saturday afternoon, when a well-filled card drew all the sport-loving community to the pretty course at Ashtown for the Phoenix Park Club September Meeting.

For more than an hour before the first race there was a steady stream of vehicles of all kinds from the city to the Ashtown Gate, private motors and taxis sharing the King's highway with the cabs, cars, and little traps that bowled along quite as consequentially, bearing their loads of racegoers intent on the afternoon's amusement. In from the surrounding country districts came many motors, two long lines of cars drawing up in the carriage enclosure. With recollections of the immense meetings during Horse Show Meeting fresh in the public mind, the attendance did not look so large. Nevertheless, a goodly number were present in the Members' Enclosure, while the Grand Stand and the popular parts were crowded. The garden party element was less en evidence than earlier in the season, and the general appearance of the dresses worn by the ladies present afforded emphatic proof, were any necessary, of the unwaning popularity of the tailor-made costume. Furs constituted, perhaps, the most striking of the dress of the afternoon. In endless variety, fashioned into coats, cloaks, the new wraps, which are neither, but serve the purposes of both as well as the stoles, ties, collarettes, revers, besides dress and hat trimmings, fur certainly asserted its supremacy in a most happy and becoming manner.

In the Members' Enclosure people kept moving about a good deal, making recognition a little difficult, but amongst those noticed were the Dowager Marchioness Conyngham, in a black toilette and hat, with a long handsome cloak of black satin. The Earl of Enniskillen, who seldom misses one of the Park meetings, was watching the races from the Stewards' Stand; while on the adjoining private stand Sir John and Captain Arnott were entertaining a party of friends. The Hon. Lady M'Calmont, one of the successful owners this season, was wearing a handsome sable cape, with a black dress, and a black hat trimmed with white and black. Lady Eva and Lady Margaret Forbes, in dark blue tailor-made suits and touches of colour in their hats, came over from Scribblestown. The Hon. Mrs. Dewhurst was present in a tailor-made costume, with handsome furs; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. M'Neile and Miss M'Neile, in dark purple tweed, with a purple hat; Mrs. Dominic More O'Ferrall, in navy blue cloth, with smoked fox furs, and Sir Thomas and Lady Dixon, who had the satisfaction of seeing the former's filly, Ardock, win the Enniskillen Plate, after one of the best races of the day.

General Sir Bryan Mahon was with friends. Sir William Goulding was escorting Lady Goulding, who wore a smart red hat with her black toilette and furs; Captain and Mrs. St. Clair were present, the latter in a velour costume of the new rust red shade; Sir Robert and Lady Gardner; Miss O'Connor, wearing a black and white check suite and green felt hat, with white fox stole; Captain and Mrs. Bernard Daly, Miss Daly, and Mr. Shaw. Mrs. Shaw was in dark grey, with a cerise felt hat and light fox furs.

Other present included:—Mr. and Mrs. Loftus, Captain Bewicke, Mr. Hugh Holmes, Mrs. Holmes, in black, with an ermine tie; Mr. R. Croker, accompanied by Mrs. Croker, in a handsome brown costume, with long brown satin cloak, and brown and gold toque; Mr. and Mrs. M'Cann, Miss Weldon. Mrs. C. Waters was in a dark blue coat-frock, and small toque with long floating veil; Mr. and Mrs. Nugent, Mr. Kennedy, Mr. and Miss Brooke, Miss Liscombe, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald, Captain and Mrs. Slatters, Mr. and Mrs. Maher, Mrs. Peacocke, Mr. H. Pack-Beresford, Mrs. O'Reilly, Mrs. Burke, Mr. S. Grehan, Mr. M'Donnell, and many others.

IRISH AFFAIRS.

RESOLUTION OF DUBLIN CONSERVATIVE WORKINGMEN'S CLUB.

At a political committee meeting of the City and County of Dublin Conservative Workingmen's Club, held on the 19th September, 1919, the following resolution was passed unanimously:—

> That we, the members of the City and County of Dublin Conservative Workingmen's Club, desire to reaffirm our unalterable determination to oppose by every means in our power the application of Home Rule, or any other form of Federal Government to any part of Ireland, believing that the progress and prosperity of this country depend on the maintenance of the Legislative Union between Great Britain and Ireland.
> We call upon the Government to repeal the Home Rule measure at present on the Statute Book, and repudiate the right of President Wilson or the American people to interfere with the domestic affairs of this country. We also most emphatically condemn the resolutions submitted to the Trades Union Congress at Drogheda on the 4th August, 1919, as being revolutionary and antagonistic to the best interests of labour and the good government of the country. We resent the introduction of party political controversies at Trade Union Conferences. The Irish Trade Union Congress speaks only on behalf of disloyal Ireland, and has always been friendly with the enemies of our King and country. We, therefore, disassociate ourselves entirely from the views of that body.

ULSTER WOMEN ORGANISING.

A largely attended women's meeting under the auspices of the Ulster Women's Unionist Council was held on Friday afternoon in Northland House, Dungannon, by the kind permission of the Countess of Ranfurly, President of the South Tyrone Women's Unionist Association.

Addresses in favour of reorganising Unionist work by women were given by Miss Murray Ker, a well-known County Monaghan Unionist worker, and Mr. J. M. Hamill, Secretary of the Ulster Women's Unionist Council. Mrs. Meglaughlin, Gortmerron, also gave an address on organisation work in South Tyrone.

Lord Ranfury, in proposing a vote of thanks to Miss Murray Ker and Mr. Hamill, said that there was no doubt that difficult times were before them, and that no opportunity should be lost of gaining over every possible vote in the sister kingdoms to their side. They realised the truth of the old motto, "United we stand; divided we fall," and if they stood fast surely no British Government would attempt to throw overboard the men of Ulster who had done so much for the Empire in favour of those who had ill-treated wounded British soldiers, had murdered policemen, and created strikes with the object of fostering German trade. By combined action the Unionists of Ulster would arrive at victory, as they had done in the past.

IRISH COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' FEDERATION.

At a largely attended meeting of commercial travellers in the Granville Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday night, Mr. R. M. Burgess in the chair, it was decided to form a branch in Dublin of the Irish Commercial Travellers' Federation.

The Chairman, in opening the proceedings, wished to point out that this organisation was in no way hostile to existing associations catering for their class. The objects of the Federation were to embrace all commercial travellers resident in Ireland in one union, with a central executive and governing power in Dublin, with branches in the principal centres. The Federation was formed on trades union lines for the protection of commercial travellers.

Messrs. Barry, Dennehy, and Carpenter attended as representatives of the Cork Branch, and during the proceedings it was stated that the Federation wanted, not to crush capital, but to support just employers, and that it was necessary to have such a Federation in the general interests of commercial men.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Chairman and to the representatives from Cork.

IRISH PROTEST AGAINST CONTROLLED FLAX PRICES.

A Committee of the Executive of the Ulster Farmers' Union met in the Central Hall, Rosemary street, Belfast, on the 19th inst. to consider a letter from the Flax Control Board intimating that it had decided that the purchase price for the 1919 crop should not be varied. Mr. David Johnston, J.P., presided. Great indignation was expressed at this decision, and it was arranged that a public meeting be called in the Ulster Hall for Friday, 26th inst., at one o'clock to protest against same. All farmers and others interested in this highly important Ulster crop are invited to attend. Other meetings were arranged for Ballymena, Armagh, Downpatrick, Donaghadee, Monaghan, Omagh, Strabane, Derry, Jerritspass, Coleraine, Newry, and Banbridge.

Snow fell in North Wales on Saturday. Snow is also reported from north-east Yorkshire.

An Exchange Paris telegram states:—The Journal publishes a telegram from Berlin, which states that officers in the garrison at Potsdam had made a plot to assassinate Erzberger, and planned to overthrow the Republic and proclaim a Monarchy. An inquiry has been opened.

On the basis of the average profit for the past seven years, the dividend on the shares now offered is covered about three times, without taking into account the additional profits to be derived from the new capital and the expansion of the business. The ordinary share capital of the company is £234,738, and the last business done in those officially listed on the Stock Exchange was 36s. 6d. The Preference Shares now offered are a good industrial investment of the second class. The subscription list will open to-day, and close on or before Saturday next. (Prospectus, Page 7).

THE SALE OF A MILITARY RIFLE.

ALLEGED TRANSACTION AT LIBERTY HALL.

Major H. P. Creagh-Osborne, King's Own Regiment, presided on Saturday morning at a district courtmartial, which was held at Ship street Barracks, Dublin, to try Christopher Quigley, who gave an address in Lower Gloucester street, on a charge of aiding and abetting Private G. Morrison, of the 3rd Wilts, in selling a service rifle to a third person.

Capt. Wallace conducted the prosecution.

Private Morrison, who was in custody, was sworn as a witness, and he identified Quigley as the man that he met near Liberty Hall on a Wednesday afternoon about three weeks ago. They spent the afternoon together. Witness asked him if he knew anyone who wanted to buy a pair of ammunition boots. The accused said that if he could get a rifle he would pay £5 for it. Witness went to the barracks and brought out his own rifle under his coat, and he met the accused at the place where he had left him, near Liberty Hall. The accused took him inside a gateway in Abbey street, and told him to wait there until he found the person who wanted the rifle. In a short time the accused returned, accompanied by another man, to whom he (witness) sold the rifle for £2. The buyer told him to shove the rifle through the bars of a window in Liberty Hall. The buyer went into Liberty Hall, and brought out the £2, which witness received. That was about 8 o'clock, and witness and the accused remained drinking together till 9 o'clock, after which they went to the lodgings of the accused, where they stayed the night. Next day they spent the balance of the money together. On that day (Thursday) accused and witness went as far as the gate of the Royal Barracks with the object of getting another rifle, but when witness got inside he was placed under arrest. All the papers in his possession were taken by the sergeant of the guard, and it was amongst them that the address of the accused was found. Witness had belonged to Belfast.

Quigley said that everything that the witness had said was wrong. The soldier gave him a few drinks, and now blamed him for his rifle.

Other evidence having been given, the trial concluded. The decision of the court will be announced in due time.

MILITARY RESTRICTIONS IN COUNTY TIPPERARY.

Our Thurles Correspondent writes:— In pursuance of the Order of the military authorities, declaring the North and South Ridings of County Tipperary military areas, parties of fully-armed soldiers and police were posted at all the approaches to Thurles on Saturday morning, and stopped people coming in from the country districts with supplies for the markets. Every approaching cart was carefully searched, and was turned back when found to contain anything for sale. Early in the day a tank, accompanied by a military guard with fixed bayonets, paraded the streets, and halted at the market square, where they remained on guard till late in the afternoon. Considerable surprise is expressed at such an order being enforced at Thurles, which is over 35 miles from the scene of the murders referred to in the proclamation.

NEW MILITARY ORDER IN TIPPERARY.

Parties of military were posted on Saturday, our Tipperary Correspondent states, on all the roads approaching Tipperary town. They stopped all persons who were bringing into the town for the markets hay, poultry, and other produce.

Our Nenagh Correspondent says—Farmers, on approaching the town on Saturday with various commodities for sale, were obliged either to return home with their goods, or deposit them in some house outside the military guard. Cloughjordan fair, however, was allowed, as was also a sheep auction in Nenagh, for which a permit was granted.

The military proclamation, our Clonmel Correspondent writes, was not enforced on Saturday in Clonmel, where the weekly markets were held as usual.

DUNDALK AERIDHEACHT PROCLAIMED.

A Sinn Fein aeridheacht, announced to be held at Bridge-a-Chrin, near Dundalk, on Sunday, was proclaimed by the authorities on Saturday. Mr. J. J. O'Kelly, M.P., President of the Gaelic League, was to have been the principal speaker.

Such Option Rights can be exercised by the holder at any time during the period of the Option, and over any portion of the shares over which the Option is held.

THE GROOTVLEI PROPRIETARY MINES, LIMITED, was incorporated in the Transvaal in April, 1904, with a capital of £400,000 in shares of £1 each. At a Special Meeting of the Shareholders on 9th September, 1919, the Directors were authorised to increase the nominal Capital up to £1,500,000, by the creation of 1,100,000 new shares, and they have full power to issue such new shares at such times and upon such terms and conditions as they may think fit. The 250,000 shares now offered for sale will bring the issued Capital of the Company up to 611,650 shares, leaving 888,350 shares for issue to meet the outstanding options.

The Company holds the Mineral Rights (with the exception of Coal) over the whole of the farm, GROOTVLEI (No. 176 Witwatersrand Dist.), 7,421 acres in extent. The Farm is situate on the Far East Rand adjoining the properties of the Geduld Proprietary Mines, Ltd.; the Springs Gold Mining Co., Ltd.; the Cassel-Clydesdale (Springs) Gold Mines, Ltd., and the Daggafontein Gold Mining Co., Ltd., as shown on the plan accompanying the Prospectus.

The Main Reef has been proved by boreholes to exist over the whole area of the Farm Grootvlei.

The Company is entitled, under the Gold Law of 1908, to a Mynpacht (or Mining Area) of 987 claims on the Farm, and to 150 Discovery Claims, making a total of 1,137 claims. On the advice of the Company's Consulting Engineer, Mr. C. B. Kingston, it is proposed to locate this Mining Area on the South-Western portion of the Farm, and to make application to the Government, under the Transvaal Mining Leases and Mineral Law Amendment Act of 1918, for the lease of an additional area, with a view to bringing the total Gold Mining area of the Company up to 2,500 claims.

The Company is also entitled under the Gold Law to one-half the claim licences payable to the Government in respect of any Gold Mining area on the farm which may be leased to third parties.

The satisfactory developments obtained by the Geduld, Springs and Daggafontein Companies have decided the Directors of the Grootvlei Proprietary Mines, Ltd., to at once take steps to raise the capital required to enable them to proceed with the development of their property, and with this object in view an agreement has been entered into with the African and European Investment Co., Ltd., whereby the Investment Company guarantees to purchase from the Grootvlei Proprietary Mines, Ltd., 250,000 shares at the price of 21/- per share, in consideration of which they receive a commission of 1/- per share, and are entitled to options over an additional 750,000 shares, as follows:—

500,000 shares at 25/- for a period of two years.
125,000 shares at 27/6 for a period of four years.
125,000 shares at 30/- for a period of five years.

all such options commencing from 30th September, 1919.

It is estimated that in the event of all these options being exercised, the sum of money provided will be sufficient to fully develop and equip the Mine with a Reduction Plant capable of crushing 600,000 tons per annum. The sum provided by the sale of the 250,000 shares will enable the Company to at once proceed to sink the necessary shafts and to provide the preliminary equipment for this purpose.

The agreement between the Grootvlei Proprietary Mines, Ltd., and the African and European Investment Co., Ltd., above referred to, provides that the Shareholders of the former Company shall have a preferential right to allotment of the 250,000 shares now offered for sale at the price of 21/- per share, and to a half interest in the option held by the Investment Company over 500,000 shares at 25/- for a period of two years from 30th September, 1919.

Application will be made to the Committee of the Stock Exchange for permission to deal in these shares as soon as they are allotted, and letters of acceptance have been issued. Arrangements will also be made for dealings in the option certificates as soon as practicable.

The following is a copy of a letter addressed to the Imperial and Foreign Corporation, Limited, by Mr. Bernhard Baron, Chairman and Managing Director of Carreras Limited:—

The Directors, 3rd September, 1919.
IMPERIAL AND FOREIGN CORPORATION, LIMITED,
1 Broad street place,

GENTLEMEN,—

The business of Carreras was established in the year 1788 by José Joaquin Carreras to carry on the sale and manufacture of various brands of tobacco, and was continued as a private concern under the original name until 1903, when it was transferred to a Limited Liability Company.

Amongst the brands of tobacco manufactured and sold by the Company was the well-known Craven Mixture.

In 1904 the manufacture of Black Cat cigarettes was commenced by Carreras and Marcianus Cigarettes, Limited, which was amalgamated with this Company in 1912, and Carreras Limited continued to make these cigarettes and Craven Mixture together with other brands of cigarettes and tobacco with increasing success.

In 1913, the Company acquired the long-established business of Alexander Boguslavsky, of Sackville street, Piccadilly, proprietors of the Turf and other brands of Russian, Turkish, and Egyptian cigarettes. The business so acquired has greatly developed and further well-known brands of high-class cigarettes were placed on the market, e.g., the Turf Virginia, Turf Derby, and Piccadilly.

During the War the business of the Company has increased, and been extended with very successful results; orders received have been greatly in excess of the available output, and the popularity of Black Cat cigarettes is rapidly growing.

The Company's products are supplied to most of the principal countries throughout the world.

The object of the present issue is to provide additional capital to enable the Company to further enlarge both its home and export trade and to pay off bank loans.

As at October 31st, 1918, the Company's assets were as follows:—

Leasehold Premises, Fittings, Plant, Machinery, Furniture, etc.	£24,552
Nett current Assets: Cash, Stocks, Investments, Debtors, etc., less liabilities to creditors and Banks, and estimated liability for Excess Profits Duty	289,520
Goodwill, trade marks, and Patents	202,795
	£516,867
Proceeds of "A" Preference Shares issued in May, 1919	22,743
	£539,610
To which must be added the nett proceeds of present issue	187,000
Making a total of	£726,610
Deducting from this total the authorised and issued Preference and "A" Preference Shares of the Company	100,000
There remains an amount of	£626,610

as representing assets to cover the new issue.

The profits of the Company for the seven years to 31st October, 1918, certified by Messrs. J. H. Champness, Corderoy, and Co., Chartered Accountants, are set out below:—

Year ending October 31st.	Issued Capital. £	Nett Profits. (Subject to Income Tax) £
1912	183,007	37,168
1913	284,058	31,216
1914	308,128	29,692
1915	308,918	51,974
1916	309,468	63,947
1917	309,468	57,081
1918	309,468	67,779

or an average for the seven years of £48,408 a year.

The profits are arrived at after deduction of the Excess Profits Duty, which has had to be estimated for the year 1918.

The dividend on the prior Preference Stocks amounts to £6,000 per annum, so that taking the average of £48,408 there is a nett surplus of £42,408 to meet the charge of £14,000 per annum on this issue of £200,000 Preference Shares without taking into account the additional profits to be derived from the proceeds of the issue.

At present the output of the Company's factory is only sufficient to supply a proportion of the orders received for the home export markets, and the increasing popularity of the Company's brands of cigarettes and tobacco, especially Black Cat and Turf cigarettes and Craven tobacco, is such that the Directors are confident that the past successful career will be continued and expanded in the future.

I am, Gentlemen,
Yours faithfully,
(Signed) BERNHARD BARON,
Chairman and Managing Director of Carreras, Ltd.

From the above letter it will be seen that, including goodwill, trade marks and patents, there are Assets of about £626,000 to cover the new issue of £200,000, and that on the basis of the average profit for the past seven years the dividend on the Shares now offered is covered about three times, without taking into account the additional profits to be derived from the issue.

Applications for purchase should be made on the form below or that enclosed with the Offer for Sale and forwarded with a cheque for the application money to the National Provincial and Union Bank of England, Limited, Head Office, 15 Bishopsgate, E.C. 2, or Branches.

Particulars of this Offer for Sale and Application Forms may be obtained from the National Provincial and Union Bank of England, Limited, the Brokers or Offices of the Company, or from the Imperial and Foreign Corporation, Limited.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917) ......5 p.c.

LONDON, SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

In spite of yesterday's further borrowing at the Bank of England and some Government disbursements to-day, the Money market has ended the week firmly, with call money wanted at 3 to 3½ per cent., and weekly and other short fixtures firm at the latter quotation. There was no important movements in dividend payments, but a call of £125,000 on Thornycroft Preferred Shares was paid. Owing to the firmness of money and the uncertainties both of the loan and the exchange outlook discount rates were still inclined to harden, though little paper offers. Two months' drafts were posted at 3⅛ to 3½ per cent., three months at 3½ to 3½ per cent., and six months at 4¼ to 4½ per cent.

Paris cables 36.93 to 37.00, Berlin 102 to 105, Amsterdam cables 11.12 to 11.14, Italy cables 41.30 to 41.45, Madrid cables 22.03 to 22.08, Christiania cables 17.88 to 17.92, Stockholm cables 16.93 to 16.98, Finland cables 86 to 88, Cologne cables 103 to 1[illegible], Rio de Janeiro 90 days' bills, 14½d., Buenos Ayres transfers, 55½d. to 55⅝d.

The Stock Exchange was closed, as usual, on Saturday.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The greater the shortage of coal, the larger the demand for oil. Oil has proved itself a necessity in naval development, and the object lesson of the war—this country's dependence on overseas food supplies and the protection of these supplies by oil-driven warships—is being reflected in mercantile marines, of which a clear indication is given by the action of the Cunard Company in ordering its new liners of more than half a million tons to be equipped for oil fuel instead of coal, and of converting part of its existing tonnage. The world, moreover, is slowly, but surely, following suit, two cases being reported from America only this week. The Seaboard Air Line is about to convert 350 engines into oil burners, while the Missouri, Kansas, and Texas Railroad has contracted for its 1920 oil supply at a figure which is estimated to save the company £300,000 on its 1918 coal bill.

Expectations of cheaper money are not now likely to be realised in the next week or two. The pressure in the Money Market, instead of easing, is becoming more pronounced. This is evident enough by the visits to the central institution. On Saturday so scarce were credits that a considerable amount had to be borrowed from the bank at 5½ per cent. Trade demands are one of the main factors for the prevailing tightness of money. The banks are finding that it is more profitable to employ their balances in financing commerce than loaning them to the market. At the same time there is a considerable amount of speculation going on, and it may be necessary to check this by calling in loans.

Confirming recent rumours, it is now officially announced that an arrangement having been arrived at with the Norwegian Government, the amalgamation of Alby United Carbide Factories and Nitrogen Products will proceed. The legal formalities in London are now being completed, and the necessary notices of the meetings, together with the report and accounts, will be issued about the middle of next month.

The directors of the Lagos Stores, Liverpool, a company having an extensive trading business in the West African Coast, have received from the African and Eastern Corporation, Ltd., formerly the African Association, Liverpool, an offer to purchase their business on the basis of four Ord. and one Pref. shares of the African Company for every five Lagos Ord., and seven African six per cent. Pref. shares for every six Lagos 7 per cent. Pref. shares. Taking Friday's valuation of the shares of each company on the Liverpool Stock Exchange, the rate of exchange is about equal.

On and after the 25th inst., definitive share warrants to bearer of the Mexican Eagle Oil Company will be ready for delivery at the office of the London Financial Agents of the company, Messrs. S. Pearson and Son, Ltd., 47 Parliament street, London, S.W. 1, in exchange for provisional certificates with Coupons Nos. 12 to 16 attached. Listing forms, which must accompany the provisional certificates, can be obtained from Messrs. S. Pearson and Son, Ltd., or the London Joint City and Midland Bank, Ltd., 5 Threadneedle street, London, E.C. 2.

Until measures are taken to stabilise the exchanges, through the flotation of an international loan or otherwise (says the Sunday Times), they will continue to have an important bearing upon the Stock markets, and should be closely watched by investors. Without venturing to predict that the rise in the Paris cheque has reached its climax, we think the causes that have led to this abnormal movement will gradually disappear, and that as the ravages of war are repaired the industrial area of Northern France will resume its productivity, rendering that country less dependent upon Great Britain and the United States. Although French Fives and Fours yield barely 5 per cent. at the current rate of exchange, we consider them good purchases for ultimate recovery in the value of the franc, and those who bought higher up would do well to average.

It is reported that negotiations are in progress for the purchase by Messrs. Lever Bros., Ltd., Port Sunlight, of the big works erected on the Pembrey Burrows during the war for the manufacture by Messrs. Nobel, Ltd., of explosives for munitions. The works, which adjoin the Ashburnham Golf Links, employed during the war something like 7,000 people; they are of vast extent, and would, it is stated, be utilised by Messrs. Lever Bros. for the manufacture of soap and margarine.

Milch beasts slightly dearer, newly-calved cows making up to £65; calving heifers up to £45; little doing among stores at late rates. This is the first big sheep market of the season, and a fair show of about 1,000; fair inquiry for lambs at 44/- to 66/-; shearlings, 85/- to 95/- each. Pigs in small supply, and easier; young ones from 35/- each.

NORWICH, Saturday.—Only 20 fat cattle of medium quality shown, while no fat sheep and very few pigs were offered, all the latter going to local buyers. Store cattle were shown in large numbers and better condition than last week, but the demand was very poor, especially for the smaller beasts, which made £1 to £2 per head less; others realised up to about £45 10/-. The store sheep penned were nearly all ewes, the best of which were in fair demand. Store pigs not so dear.

There are still free offerings of bacon, hams, and shoulders from the quay, which are chiefly out of condition, though they include some first brands, and buyers take these at the maximum rates when quality is fairly right. Lower class goods attract little attention, and some parcels are still unsaleable at any allowance the Closing Committee may make. LARD on the spot remained quiet, and supplies of all descriptions in excess of demand. Irish bacon scarce and wanted. CHEESE in fair request at 1/3½ per lb., delivered to retailers. BUTTER remains firm, and goes rapidly into consumption as supplies become available. WOOL.—LEICESTER, Saturday.—When wool was short it was hoped that when that was remedied the hosiery industry would have all the yarns it wanted, but there is plenty of wool in the country now, and yarns are very scarce. The supply shows no signs of improvement at present, and unless there is a speedy increase in the supply of yarns work will have to go elsewhere. Hosiery manufacturers are utilising all the machinery they can put into operation.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

In developments in distributing markets business recently denotes some expansion. Individually, however, manufacturers' output materialises slowly, but collectively deliveries run into a fairly good volume in the turnover. Values generally remain on a firm basis. The fresh trouble in the Ironfounders' Guild, and possible extension to engineers and allied branches of trading, threatens a far-reaching deadlock and serious menace to most industries. After the coal question the iron and engineering workers hold the key to all sections of production. Public tea markets continue firm. Local markets without particularly new feature.

The vessels with their freights were as follows:—The Carmania, from New York, with 5,773 boxes of meat, and the Belgic, from New York, with 715 boxes of meat, making a total of 6,488 boxes of meat. Compared with the imports of the preceding week, these figures show a decrease of 111 carcases and 354 tons of mutton and lamb, two tons of pork, 200 sides of veal, 9,190 quarters, and 3,750 tons of beef and 56,994 boxes of meat.

PLOTHOLDERS' PRODUCE SHOW.

INCREASED ENTRIES AND GOOD EXHIBITS.

The Plotholders' Produce Show, which was held in the Mansion House, Dublin, on Saturday afternoon, was a distinct success. This was evidenced by the fact that the entries increased from 83 in number last year, when the show was held in the Molesworth Hall, to 190, and the quality of the exhibits all round showed considerable improvement. That the plotholders are taking the keenest interest in their work is evident, and the judges expressed themselves highly pleased with the results. There was keen competition in the various classes, and the fine specimens of garden produce displayed were much admired by the many who visited the show during the evening.

In connection with the show a meeting of those interested in the plotholders' movement was held, the chair being occupied by Sir Joseph Glynn, Chairman of the Irish Insurance Commissioners, who mentioned that there were 2,000 plotholders in the city, and, taking the surrounding districts, the number was about 4,500. It was important, he said, to see that the system should be continued in the future. He was sure they could rely on the help of the Local Government Board and the Department of Agriculture. They all expected, he concluded, to get an Allotment Act.

Mr. Charles O'Conor, Local Government Board, said that the Board was in full sympathy with the plotholders in trying to get fixity of tenure. There were about 18,000 allotment holders in Ireland under the direct authority of local bodies. He suggested to the Dublin Corporation and the other Corporations and public bodies who were promoting housing schemes that they should endeavour, in connection with them, to have schemes which would admit of a portion of land round the house for the purpose of a plot.

Mr. George Fletcher, Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction, expressed agreement that they ought to have an Act which would secure permanency for these plots.

Mr. William Field proposed a resolution reiterating the frequent and universal demand for a permanent Allotment Act for Ireland.

Miss Harrison, Hon. Secretary Vacant Land Cultivation Society, seconded the motion, which was passed.

THE FITZ-GERALD OPERATIC SOCIETY.

The Fitz-Gerald Operatic Society opens a two-weeks' engagement at the Empire Theatre, commencing September 29th, when, with Strauss's ever popular opera, the Chocolate Soldier, the entire productions will again be in the hands of Mr. C. P. Fitz-Gerald, the musical director and producer of the Society, who will be supported by a very large company and augmented orchestra.

An important combine of the miners' associations of Staffordshire, Worcestershire, Warwickshire, and Shropshire is proposed. The associations are governed by different rules, though belonging to the Miners' Federation. The amalgamation of 60,000 workers under one set of working rules will, it is thought, add strength to the men's side and abolish sectional strikes.

THE BRITISH-BUILT FORDSON TRACTOR.

Work at the Fordson Works, which are situated on the right bank of the river, within ten minutes' walk of the centre of the City of Cork, is now rapidly developing. The Marina site of the Fordson Works is one of the finest in Europe. Each day sees progress made in organisation and erection. The first Cork-built tractor was completed by July 3rd. Just how soon 100 machines a day will leave the works depends on certain factors, but it is claimed that this figure now aimed at will soon be reached and passed. Sales department and general offices are now housed in Cork in a handsome and well-planned single storey building, which will serve until permanent offices can be erected. Messrs. R. W. Archer and Co., 65 Lower Mount street, Dublin, are the company's agents for Leinster.

FOUNDED 1872.

Portrait of Mrs. E. GOFF, of Beeches Cottage, Saltney Ferry, near Chester, who writes:—

"For five years I suffered greatly from an ulcerated leg, which at one time was covered with open wounds from knee to foot, there being as many as 21 wounds in it at once. I tried all sorts of preparations and attended the Infirmary, but nothing seemed to do me any good, and I was sent away from the Infirmary as Incurable. One day my daughter saw Clarke's Blood Mixture advertised in a newspaper, and read it to me, and I decided to give it a trial. Finding the first lot was doing me good I persevered with it, and after having four bottles my leg was completely healed. All this happened some eight years ago, and I have had no return of the trouble ever since."

Clarke's Blood Mixture, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in all cases of Eczema, Scrofula, Scurvy, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Boils, Pimples, Sores and Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Gout, etc. Pleasant to take, and free from anything injurious. IRISH HIDE CONTROL.

A meeting of the Irish Hide Control Committee, under the Chairmanship of Mr. William Field, was held on Wednesday, the 17th inst., and was almost fully attended.

Complaints regarding prices of Irish cattle hides were considered in the presence of the Assistant Director of Raw Materials (Ministry of Munitions, Supply) and the Assistant Director of Meat Supplies (Ministry of Food).

A resolution, proposed by the President of the Dublin Victuallers' Association, and seconded by the President of the Belfast Victuallers' Association, demanding immediate and more equitable adjustment of Irish cattle hide prices, was carried, and was handed to the representatives of the departments aforenamed to be dealt with.

So soon as a decision has been arrived at, such decision will be communicated to those concerned.

An Exchange Paris telegram states:—It is announced from a German source that, in contravention of the armistice, the Poles have attacked the station at Lewin and killed three Germans and wounded two.
